WATCH IT GO 'WHUMP!'

U.S. Marines flinch as a shell booms from the tube of their 60mm mortar that can be held by one man. The action was recorded in a recent Marine sweep operation south of Da Nang in South Viet Nam, in an area believed to be under strong Cong influence. While the mortar can be hand-operated, it is normally placed on a heavy base plate to stand on its own.

Cal Students Strike After Police Battle With Sit-Ins

Savio, 9 Others Arrested

COMBINED AP & UPI

BERKELEY — Thousands of University of California students stayed away from classes today in a strike called by leaders arrested during a sit-in demonstration protesting the presence of Navy recruiters.

The strike leaders admitted, however, a majority of the 27,500 students at the campus, one of the nation's largest, would attend classes.

As students entered the campus during a rainstorm, they were greeted by pickets distributing leaflets announcing the strike. The classroom boycott was scheduled last night at a spontaneous meeting of 3,000 students following a clash between police and sit-in demonstrators in the student union building.

FIVE DEMANDS

The leaflets listed five demands, including a request that the university seek "publicly and forcibly" to have criminal charges dropped against nine demonstrators who were arrested. Only three of the youths taken into custody were students. One of the non-students was Mario Savio.

Yesterday's police - demonstrator clash occurred while Chancellor Roger Heyns and President Clark Kerr were out of town. Heyns interrupted a New York City visit to fly home while Kerr attempted to obtain a flight from Los Angeles' fog-bound airport.

AN EDITORIAL

While strike-supporting pickets paraded with signs reading "Rules for the students, not the administration" and "Students protest cop brutality," the campus newspaper, The Daily Californian, issued an editorial entitled, "Stupidity."

"It was sickening, frightening, so utterly stupid, so incredible," the editorial said. "A picket of a small table of three military officers resulted in almost instant confrontation. instant chaos, instant irrationality by administrators, students and non-students. The administration should never have called those clumsy cops on campus. The administration should never have allowed the Navy table . . ."

TEAM LEAVES

Savio was charged with trespassing and was freed on $440 bail. The Navy recruiting team had long left the scene.

Besides Savio, the non - students arrested were Jerry Rubin, a longtime campus activist who led the now defunct Vietnam Day Committee; Steve Hamilton, Progressive Labor Party leader; William Miller, Stewart Albert and Michael F. Smith.

Storm May Continue

The storm which reached Marin County early today, dumping more than an inch of rain by 8 a.m., will continue through tonight and possible into tomorrow, the United States Weather Bureau said.

Forecast was for 60 per cent chance tomorrow. Small craft warnings will fly tonight, with southwest winds of 15 to 30 miles per hour.

The storm is a blessing for ski resort owners, building up the snow pack partially washed away by rain earlier this week. Travelers were warned to expect strong winds and snow in the mountains, with the snow level falling from 4,000 to 6,000 feet.

Highest rainfall reading was in Ross, where 1.15 inches fell by 8 a.m. today. San Rafael had .8 of an inch by noon.

Other rainfall readings at 8 a.m. in Marin County included: Larkspur, 1 inch; Woodacre, .77 of an inch; Point Reyes Station, .53; Civic Center, .48; San Anselmo, .58; Terra Linda, .42; Mill Valley, .45; Sausalito and Tamalpais Valley, .38; Bolinas, .37, and Novato, .01.

Pickets Vow Turnout At Abortion Classes

A group of Marin women planning to picket tonight's abortion lecture in San Anselmo announced today their ranks are swelling and they expect pickets will outnumber attendance at the controversial lecture.

Patricia Maginnis, San Francisco medical laboratory technologist who will instruct the class, said she is undeterred by the pickets. "We feel honored, it's the first time any of our classes have been picketed," she declared.

The class, which will include instructions for do-it-yourself methods of abortion, is set for 8 p.m. at Star Hall, 100 Sacramento Avenue, San Anselmo.

Mrs. Fred Baumsteiger of San Anselmo, who heads MOMI (Mothers Outraged at the Murder of Innocents) said: "We'll be there picketing, rain or shine. There's been a lot of interest and a lot of indignation."

She said her group, co-headed by Mrs. Peter S. de Rutte of Lagunitas, will carry signs and be outside the hall before the class begins.

"W're very definitely disappointed with the silence thus far from county authorities," said Mrs. Baumsteiger. She said she had asked Marin County Board of Supervisors to make a statement on the classes. However, the board does not meet today.

Star Hall no longer belongs to the Marin County Reserve Police Officers Assn., retired San Anselmo Police Chief Donald T. Wood said today.

The association itself exists "in name only," Wood said. It once had 350 members, but as the number of reserve officers in the county dwindled the association just "faded away," according to Wood.

Two years ago, Wood said, the association sold the clubhouse at 100 Sacramento Avenue, San Anselmo, to a non-profit corporation, the Marin County Star Club. The former police chief said he is a director of the Star Club

Russ Premier Arrives In France For Visit

PARIS (UPI)—Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin flew here today for a nine-day state visit seeking greater Franco-Soviet cooperation. He said his trip could have a "positive influence" on outstanding East-West problems.

Kosygin, making his first visit to a Western power as Soviet head of government, flew here for wide-ranging political talks with President Charles de Gaulle aimed at opening up new areas of agreement between France and Russia.

Viet Cong Defectors At New High

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. officials today reported a new peak in defections from the ranks of the Viet Cong.

They said 2,505 returnees came over to the allied side in November for the highest monthly total since the chieu hoi—open arms—program was launched nearly four years ago. The previous high was 2,082 last February.

At the same time, the U.S. Command reported a rise in American and enemy war casualties last week, while Vietnamese headquarters reported a drop in casualties among government forces.

Spokesmen said the 143 U.S. servicemen were killed in combat during the week and another 709 were wounded in action. The new casualty figures raised to 6,192 the number of Americans killed in Viet Nam.

In other developments, high-flying B-52 bombers pounded Viet Cong positions only 27 miles from Saigon. On the ground, fighting died down after a one-day spurt.

U.S. headquarters disclosed two new ground operations were under way involving American infantrymen.

The U.S. air offensive over North Viet Nam continued at a low pace as it has for the last three weeks because of rainstorms and generally foul weather.

The U.S. Command reported American troop strength in Viet Nam reached 361,000 by last Saturday, an increase of 1,000 men over the previous week.

The record number of Viet Cong defectors reported for No-

Quake Damage, Loss Of Wildlife Cited In Opposition To Harbor

The Marin County planning department today issued a 34-page indictment of the Bolinas Harbor District plan for development of Bolinas Lagoon, with additional pages of appendix, including the report of the Marin Conservation League.

The planning department's recommendations, to be discussed by the planning commission at 9 a.m. Monday at the Civic Center, appeared even more opposed to the plan than did the league's report.

The district's plan, prepared by Mill Valley architect Norman T. Gilroy, proposes Marina development on a filled Kent Island and on the southeast shore of the lagoon, with the northern section left in open area as a bird refuge.

The county planning staff report leads off by describing the San Andreas Fault as "the most conspicuously active earthquake zone in the world" and describes what will happen in the next big earthquake.

"Firstly, primary fault movement will rupture all structures that straddle the fault displacement lines. Water in Bays and lagoons can be thrown well over the banks, while accompanying tsunamis or tidal waves could accompany the shock and wipe out ocean front development," declares the report.

The planning department, however, takes exception to Gil-

San Francisco Holds Key To U.C. Site In Marin

San Francisco holds the key to when and where a University of California campus will be built in the North Bay.

The university would like to build an urban campus in that city, whose planning commission has recommended a site be provided in an area south of Market Street slated for redevelopment. But the university has not been satisfied with the size of the area proposed.

Whether a campus is located in Marin County will be profoundly affected by San Francisco's ultimate offer to the university.

Two new campuses are required in the Bay Area and should not be located too close together, according to site criteria developed by the university.

Selection of a San Francisco site would give construction there priority in 1972 with a second campus to be developed elsewhere about fours years later. It would also virtually eliminate Southern Marin as a future possibility and make even Northern Marin's chances less likely.

Marin emerges as a prime location, however, in the event a San Francisco campus is impossible, with a second campus

The inaugural ball Jan. 5 will be "a very elegant affair," said Sandy Quinn, Reagan's chief inaugural planner.

Tickets to the ball, expected to draw at least 5,500 to the State Fairgrounds main exhibition hall, likely will sell for $50 a couple. The tab for all the inaugural events Jan. 4-5 might run to about $200 a person, if he or she wanted to take in everything.

Reagan Finds State Finance Scene 'Bleak'

Fears $700 Million Deficit, Still Seeks Property Tax Cut

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Gov.-elect Ronald Reagan Wednesday found California's financial picture "much more bleak" than he expected—even in the heat of the political campaign.

He said the deficit for next year could reach $700 million, more than double earlier expectations and a record.

Reagan, who takes office Jan. 2, said after a round of conferences with financial officials that he may be forced to "somewhat delay" his creative society programs but still pledged to trim property taxes as his No. 1 priority.

'SERIOUS PROBLEM

Afterward, he told newsmen: "The financial picture is much more bleak than even I said in my direst predictions during the campaign. California is confronted with a very serious problem."

He said he was "shocked and surprised" at the huge gap between the state's anticipated revenue and the amount already appropriated or needed for future programs.

Fiscal experts estimate the gap at the end of the current fiscal year at as high as $425 million and some estimates reached $700 million by December 1967.

Reagan's meeting with the fiscal experts followed pledges of bipartisan cooperation with two of the state's leading Democrats—Atty. Gen. Thomas M. Lynch and State Sen. Hugh M. Burns, D-Fresno, Senate president pro tempore.

The governor-elect lunched with Burns at a downtown restaurant. Reagan said both agreed the state's biggest problem currently is fiscal.

"I'm on my sixth governor and I always got along with all of them," Burns said. "I don't think partisanship will be a problem."

DEMOS CONTROL

Democrats control both houses of the legislature—the Senate by a 21-19 margin and the Assembly by 42-38.

Lynch, the lone statewide Democrat to survive the Reagan sweep in the Nov. 8 general election, also pledged cooperation.

Lynch and Reagan agreed to work on legislation to outlaw the sale of "heavy weapons" such as anti-tank guns and hand grenades.

Reagan, who has opposed gun registration proposals, said he agreed with Lynch.

Rafferty Tells Reagan State's Schools 'Desperate' For Funds

SACRAMENTO (AP) — State school chief Dr. Max Rafferty is telling Gov. - elect Ronald Reagan that California schools need more money, more protection for teachers against assault and full control over choosing books.

"The most immediate crash problem in education is how we're going to pay for it," Rafferty said. "It's almost desperate . . . it is desperate."

Rafferty said in Los Angeles earlier this week that he'll ask the legislature for $375 million for public schools. He told a news conference that money from liquor and cigarette tax increases and horse racing could be used.

The superintendent of public instruction, who endorsed Reagan for governor, yesterday continued to brush aside comments about any plans to seek a U.S. Senate seat in 1968.

"People who considered me for the Senate are prominent Democrats," Rafferty said yesterday. "I look with suspicion on the opposition party nominating me — maybe they think I'd be the easiest candidate to defeat." Rafferty is a registered Republican.

He said Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, D - Inglewood, probably would include a school finance section with accompanying relief for property taxpayers in his own tax reform bill. Unruh proposed a similar measure in the 1966 session.

The 1966 Oakland racial unrest in which teachers were beaten prompted his proposals to protect teachers, Rafferty said.

Local school districts should be able to choose their own books for elementary and junior high grades, Rafferty said. High school districts already choose their own books, rather than use the state board of education selection.

The school superintendent suggested modofications in the state's school unification law, sponsored in 1964 by Unruh. Reagan has said the law needs changing. The measure requires unification elections every two years in non - unified districts, among other things.

Rafferty recommended eliminating this provision, doubling the unification financial bonus to districts and eliminating "the guide-line which has been narrowly interpreted by the State Board of Education that unification elections be conducted on the basis of existing school district boundary lines."

Reagan has said he objects to using public money as a lever to try to force unification. "Mr. Reagan I think would like to repeal AB145 (the unification law) altogether," Rafferty said.

Convict Battles Death Sentence

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI)—The Nevada Supreme Court today had before it a request from Joseph Miles Walker for a writ of habeas corpus.

Walker, sentenced to death for the murder of Paul Allison, Santa Rosa, submitted the request yesterday. He claimed he was illegally convicted in 1961.

Walker claimed he was denied a lawyer before questioning. Since that time, the U. S. Supreme Court has ruled for stricter adherence to requests for counsel made by indigent defendants.

PHILIP E. WATSON
Grand jury indictment

L.A. County Assessor Faces Bribery Charge

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Assessor Philip E. Watson, who gets a $7,500 pay raise next week, was indicted yesterday by the Los Angeles County grand jury on bribery charges.

Watson, 42, was accused of parceling out $420,000 worth of tax favors in exchange for $20,000 in campaign contributions.

BIG INDICTMENT

His former deputy assessor, John French, was indicted for allegedly pocketing a $2,500 contribution earmarked for Watson's successful campaign for reelection by a movie theater chain.

Also named in the 13-count indictment, the climax of a nine-month probe by the attorney general's office, were Robert N. Gold, an attorney, and Earl L. Sherman, a real estate official.

EIGHTH ONE

Watson is the eighth public official and third county assessor indicted in California since Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch opened an investigation of tax scandals in San Francisco in July of 1965.

He and the three others named in yesterday's indictment were given until Dec. 7 to surrender. Superior Judge Arthur L. Alarcon set $5,000 bond for Watson, Gold and Sherman and $2,500 for French.

"I'm stunned," said Watson.

Watson, reelected last June to a second four-year term, was specifically indicted on two counts of conspiracy to commit bribery and three counts of taking a bribe.

THE CHARGES

He was charged with accepting a $15,000 campaign contribution from the J. J. Newberry Co. in return for a $400,000 slash in the firm's property taxes. Watson also was accused of taking a $5,000 cash contribution from Crown Towers, a West Los Angeles luxury apartment development, in return for a $20,000 tax reduction.

Gold was indicted on counts of bribe-taking and conspiracy to offer a bribe in the Newberry case, while Sherman, a partner in the Crown Towers development, was named in three bribery and conspiracy counts.

Modern Woman Said Ruining Sex Desires

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Women are becoming more interested in sexual satisfaction and men less so, a psychiatrist says.

"It's horrifying — a danger to the future of the human race," said Dr. Ralph Greenson of Beverly Hills, a speaker yesterday at the American Medical Assn. clinical meeting.

"Our only hope is that basic instincts will eventually win out, that a true equality of the sexes will emerge and sex will be fun again," he said, adding:

"This is not only true for the mature and middle-aged, but it also appears to be equally valid for the youth," he said.

He described a study at the University of California at Los Angeles of more than 100 persons who have asked to have their sex changed by surgery and hormone treatment.

"Always before people thought it was the women who envied the men," he said. "But we have found that more than two-thirds of those who wanted to change their gender were males . . .

"Men have contempt for women only on the surface. Underneath is a repressed envy, and repressed envy arouses fear. This has grown as women have become more liberated and more powerful. All these elements play a role in the increase in sexual apathy among men . . .

"The more willing and anxious a girl is, the more this brings out a latent fear in the male of what he envies.

"One reason the male envies the woman so much is that she is always sure of herself as a woman. A man is never quite sure he is a man; he has to prove it over and over again."

Sexual apathy among boys is responsible for the growing number who have long hair, Dr. Greenson said, explaining:

"They are not seeking lovers. They are seeking twinship with girls—a form of security."

Diminished sexuality leads to frustration, thus to aggression, he said.

"Murder and riot become more frequent, as they are today. The brutality of Hitler is a prime example of such sexual frustration.

"A woman is her most feminine in the company of men. But man in our society feels most manly in the company of men. Think about that for a while if you want an insight into our society."

University of Missouri scientists estimate that four miles of railroad tank cars would be needed to transport the water that equals an inch of rain falling on a 160-acre farm.

LSD Law Reported Having Little, If Any Effect

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)— A law making possession of the psychedelic drug LSD illegal has had little effect on the number of persons seeking help from doctors, Dr. Sidney V. Cohen reports.

Dr. Cohen, chief of psychosomatic medicine at the Wadsworth Veterans Administration Hospital in Los Angeles, said during a panel discussion yesterday that it is as safe to use LSD for research under controlled medical conditions as any other experimental drug.

Dr. Duke Fisher from UCLA, who has treated many persons adversely affected by LSD, said it isn't possible to screen out bad risks. But he said research should continue.

A bad drug-inducted experience can cause serious mental confusion and psychosis and suggest suicide in certain susceptible persons, the doctors said.

Yet UCLA psychiatrist Keith S. Ditman doubted the LSD law will have any desirable effect.

Novelist Kesey Denies Charge

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Novelist Ken Kesey has testified that he was "off the grass" when police arrested him last January on a Telegraph Hill rooftop and charged him with possession of marijuana.

Kesey, 31, author of the best-selling book "One Flew Over the Cockoo's Nest," testified yesterday that he was merely sitting on the roof talking with a friend, Mrs. Carolyn Adams Walker, 19, when police made their strike.

Mrs. Walker corroborated Kesey's testimony: "It was my grass. Mr. Kesey didn't know I had it."

Nine Report Their Spending In Election

Nine candidates in the Nov. 8 general election had filed campaign expense forms with the Marin county clerks office by today.

Deadline is Dec. 13.

James E. Pockrus, of Rohnert Park, unsuccessful Democratic candidate for assemblyman of the Seventh District, listed a total of $701.55 contributed and the same amount spent. He was defeated by incumbent William T. Bagley, Republican, who has not yet filed his statement.

Joel F. Gustafson of Mill Valley, spent $237.96, the amount contributed to his campaign by himself and others in his unsuccessful Marin Municipal Water District campaign. He was defeated by William Marcus of Kentfield, who reported he received and spent $950.40.

Thomas J. Barfield, Archie A. Goldsberry, and John H. Middleton, all of Bolinas, reported they spent no money campaigning unsuccessfully for three directorships of Bolinas Harbor District.

Cecilia E. Martz reported she spent $40.42 for election to one of two posts as director of Terra Linda Recreation-Park District. Daniel C. Beittel, a defeated candidate for the same board, reported he spent $10.

Richard M. Sims Jr., elected as associate justice, District Court of Appeal, reported he spent no money campaigning.

Sit-In Struggle Sparks Class Boycott At Campus

ence before classes were scheduled, the Council of Campus Organizations, a successor to the militant Free Speech Movement, demanded that police never again be called to the 27,500-student campus.

Trouble started last night when Corinne Goldstick, a non-student and Reiss Erich, student member of the Students for a Democratic Society set up a card table next to the Navy recruitment table.

Student groups are not ordinarily permitted to set up political tables inside the Student Union Building. And non - students are not allowed to man tables anywhere on the campus.

The group flopped on the floor, and Airale called for reinforcements. Students and non-students poured in for a sit-in around the table.

University police backed by two busloads of Alameda County sheriff's deputies, waded into the demonstrators with night sticks and riot helmets, dragging out the non-students. An estimated 3,500 students jeered police.

When the warrants were issued activity shifted from a sit-in to a near-riot. Campus police displayed open wounds from bites. A Berkeley officer was hit in the face. Police got rough with spectators who tried to interfere.

When Savio was released on bail early today, he returned to the student union building and appealed to 3,500 persons who were staging a sit-in in the Pauley ballroom to stay away from this morning's classes.

The 23-year-old Savio, a former UC student was recently rebuffed by the board of regents in his bid for re-admission.

His audience, representing less than 13 per cent of the campus enrollment of 27,500, then voted by a show of hands to unanimously stage a boycott.

Savio, then called an end to the ballroom sit-in and the crowd dispersed in an orderly manner.

An immediate campaign was launched for a student boycott to protest the arrests, and the senate of the student government voted 9-8 in favor of a resolution calling for a strike if charges against those arrested were pursued.

"There comes a point when we have to think of the atmosphere that they (the administration and faculty) have created here," graduate student Mike Lerner shouted to the crowd. "These issues are not new issues. We have been mistreated in this university for a long time and we have been saying so."

It was almost an echo of the speech given by Savio when he called the university a "factory" and set the 1964 sit-in over student political activity on the campus.

Dan McIntosh, president of the Associated Students of the University of California, told the milling crowd:

"If the university takes disciplinary action and presses charges, I will resign and ask all members of this rinky-dink student government to resign."

No Apologies, Says Kuchel

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R - Calif., had no apologies today for his lack of support for Gov. - elect Ronald Reagan, saying, "I called my signals as I saw them."

The GOP Senate whip noted there is a custom of independence among political candidates in California and recalled that Richard M. Nixon did not endorse him for the same reason.

"Reagan had phenomenal success without too many endorsements from public figures," Kuchel said in a news conference.

to follow in another North Bay county.

Where Marin stands in the competition for the new 25,000-student campus may emerge from a report to be submitted Dec. 15 by the Bechtel Corp. to UC President Clark Kerr. Bechtel was hired by the university's Education Coordinating Council to survey sites in six North Bay counties.

The report is not expected to be made public until after it has been presented to the UC Board of Regents at its Jan. 19-20 meeting in Berkeley. Even then, details may be withheld because of fear of escalation of real estate values in the area selected.

The requirements of the university—except for an essentially high rise campus in San Francisco—are for 1,000 usuable acres for the campus itself, with another 3,000 to 4,000 acres available for a supporting community. This "supporting area" would have to be subject to zoning controls keeping it consistent with university development.

In addition the site must have adequate access road, either ready or guaranteed by the county chosen. Other county commitments required would be for the emplacement of water, power and sewage lines to the campus boundary.

Environmental amenities sought include natural beauty, and freedom from smog, and excessive noise of industry, traffic and aircraft.

Showdown Set On Rhodesia

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson left tonight by plane to join Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith aboard a warship in the Mediterranean for a final showdown on the Rhodesian crisis that could bring economic ruin to both countries.

He pledged before leaving there would be no sellout.

The precise area of the rendezvous was kept secret, but it was believed to be off Gibraltar.

Gunmen Foiled In Marin City Office Heist

Two youths armed with a sawed-off shotgun early today staged an unsuccessful attempt to rob the Marin County Housing Authority office at 429 Drake Avenue, after tying up and striking the shop maintenance foreman.

The foreman, Michael Chirco, 49, of 74 Matilda Avenue, Mill Valley, told sheriff's officers he arrived at work about 7:40 a.m. He punched his time card after unlocking the maintenance shop at the rear of the main office, then unlocked a door connecting with the office.

INTRUDER WAITING

There he was confronted by a tall, masked youth with a shotgun, he said. According to Chirco, the gunman apparently had already entered the building by breaking an office window.

He said the youth, described as six feet tall and wearing dark clothes, told him to "put your hands up," then ordered him into the cashier's office.

Here awaited the second, smaller youth, Chirco said. Chirco was asked if he knew the combination of the office safe, when he replied that he did not, he was ordered to lie on the floor.

RAPPED ON HEAD

Chirco told officers the pair pulled his jacket over his head and tied his hands behind his back. He said he apparently made a move, because one youth rapped him lightly on the head. He was uninjured, however.

They placed a wastepaper basket over his head and left, Chirco said.

vember also exceeded a five-week high of 2,336 in March, U.S. officials said.

Despite the claim of record defections, there always has been some question of the accuracy and significance of the statistics. Some observers contend that some returnees are actually refugees from war-ravaged areas or impoverished peasants, from Viet Cong-controlled sections, seeking government food and care.

U.S. officials said that since the chieu hoi program was started in early 1963, more than 45,000 former Viet Cong have turned themselves in to the Saigon government's care. So far this year, they say, there have been 17,726 returnees, an increase of 6,602 over all of last year and the highest yearly total to date.

BOLINAS

roy's argument for the need to stop siltation. The report says it "cannot find any tangible and scientific evidence to verify" the requirement for remedial action on siltation.

The report also says there should be a "wide transition zone" between boating activity and bird refuge, rather than the "imaginary fence line as one might find in a zoo" that the county staff sees in the Gilroy plan.

"A number of experts agree," the staff report states, "that significant wildlife could not be expected to survive the high degree of activity intrusion into and around the lagoon, proposed by this plan."

The county report also has some unflattering things to say about boatmen.

Among the factors listed that would make the need for berths in Bolinas less than envisioned by Gilroy are:

"The new generation of sailors is not as well trained and skilled to venture beyond the (San Francisco) Bay to open water. Furthermore, that even skilled sailors get into unforseen difficulties."

Accompanying this argument is the statement that San Francisco Bay's Marina potential is not yet fully developed, that the channel into Bolinas Lagoon would be difficult to navigate in storms, and that "a substantial component" of increased boat ownership is in craft 16 feet or under, not necessarily in need of slips.

The report sites an Army Corps of Engineers estimate of $14 million for development and jettying of the lagoon channel, and questions Gilroy's proposal to start the Marina first, hoping the district can thus raise the money to finance the channel work. This, the report says would force a commercial operation in the lagoon.

H. E. Bramston-Cook (USN-Ret.) cites in his report for the Marin Conservation League that some provision will have to be made to by-pass the sand that would be stopped by the jetties. Otherwise the beach at Stinson would erode away, he claims.

Among the appendices to the report, also, is a map designated as "proposal for Bolinas Lagoon Master Plan, November, 1966, by the California Council of the American Institute of Architects."

Melton Ferris, Bolinas resident and executive officer of the council, stated emphatically today that the plan was in no way connected with the AIA.

It was a drawing made by three interested architects, Peter Kitchell, Woody Stockwell and David Tirrell. The plan was shown to Ferris and he sent it on to the county planning director with a not. However, the note was on AIA stationery and the three-man study became part of the county's report, with credit to AIA.

The plan shows Marinas just north of Bolinas and on the southeast shore of the lagoon, with the island left as a tidal swamp.

The county staff recommends further study for the future of Bolinas Lagoon to find out about the danger of earthquake, effect on ecology, and extent of siltation.

It also calls for an overall recreation plan for the Bolinas-Stinson area, study of present government structures and the possibility of other structures to take care of such problems as cliff erosion, water pollution, traffic control, harbor management, wildlife preservation, and recreation.

It also recommends a freeze on development through interim zoning. This was done by county supervisors Tuesday.

Bliss Seeks New Votes For GOP

By JULES WITCOVER
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON — Republican National Chairman Ray Bliss, who will be 59 next month and acts every bit of it, has decided to work Bobby Kennedy's side of the political street in search of new GOP voters and workers.

Bliss, his dour contenance notably brightened by his party's election day victories, is launching a nationwide program to woo the same college set on which Kennedy has been taking dead aim.

The statistically minded Bliss, brandishing a Gallup poll showing there are about 13 per cent more political independents among college students than among the general population, sees a golden opportunity to cash in.

Because voters usually stick to the first party affiliation they choose, he says, the Republican party is going to make a special appeal to the college kids through a series of seminars informing them of career opportunities in the GOP.

The first of the seminars will be held Dec. 10 at the University of Wisconsin. Bliss himself will speak but other and chronologically younger Republican officeholders will be on display to demonstrate where youth can go in the party.

No campus — not even the University of California at Berkeley—will be written off. Bliss says. "We don't consider any place or anyone a lost cause," he insists. "If they're over 21 and can vote, we want them."

Bliss denied in discussing the program Tuesday that it is his answer to the Bobby Kennedy strategy for 1968 or 1972. But he made clear Kennedy isn't the only politician who recognizes the wisdom of appealing to youth by offering them a challenge.

The college set is a particularly inviting target, the chairman notes, because the larger independent percentage in this group appears to come out of the Democrat's hide. The poll shows that 26 per cent of students consider themselves Republican, the same percentage as in the general population, whereas only 35 per cent think of themselves as Democrats, compared to 48 per cent generally. The independents now comprise 39 per cent.

Though Bliss is clearly the architect of the youth plan, he realizes he is not the ideal front man for it. A 25-year-old, 1962 Harvard graduate named Howard Phillips will be the program's chairman.

Desalting Plants To Aid Drought

This is the finding of an Atomic Energy Commission study in drought regions, especially those in northern New Jersey and New York City.

Aerospace Ideas Fight Problems

BOSTON (AP)—Management techniques of the aerospace industry can be applied effectively to the growing social, economic and social problems of our cities, several speakers reported at a technical meeting Wednesday.

Some, like Vernal M. Tyler of McDonnell Aircraft Corp., said cities must call on the aerospace industry for help.

"Aerospace," Tyler said, "has the largest private reservoir of scientific talent in the world. Its engineers, often starting from scratch, have come up with workable solutions to almost every problem presented."

Tyler said California has set an example by applying the skills of aerospace firms to large-scale civilian problems with the financing of four studies on transportation, waste disposal, information systems and juvenile delinquency.

Frank B. Coker of Systems Development Corp., Santa Monica, said the California studies focused additional attention on these problem areas in future projects:

State and local governments must begin to pay their share of the cost of developing and applying advanced techniques to their common problem spheres.

Community leaders must upgrade their knowledge of the techniques of advanced management made possible through the use of computer-based management systems.

The new users of advanced techniques must provide their own in-house personnel to work as a team with systems contractors.

Yule Lights Go On Tomorrow

Christmas decorations will be illuminated tomorrow in downtown Novato and Mill Valley.

Novato's decorations include a 25-foot Christmas tree and a Nativity at Grant Avenue and Highway 101, elves on lamp posts, and lights on some of the oak trees in center islands on Highway 101.

Santa Claus will tour the area nightly from 6:30 to 8:30 according to Ross Tankersley, president of the Novato Chamber of Commerce. Christmas music will be played over a public address system during the same hours.

Space Rescue Held Needed

BOSTON (AP) — A space expert said today that a space catastrophe is inevitable and urged that the United States move faster to develop a rescue system to aid disabled or stranded astronauts.

Dr. Eugene B. Konecci of the National Aeronautics and Space Council reported that the United States is studying several plans, "with very limited resources being applied to the whole manned rescue area as an integrated problem."

In a paper presented at the annual conference of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics, Konecci said the studies have provided valuable research but "perhaps we should move faster with a definite plan."

He said many believe the need for space rescue is justification for starting on the next generation of spacecraft, whose main job would be to ferry men and supplies between the earth, moon and space stations.

Errors in transmitting digital data by radio or wire can be eliminated by a new communications device that applies complex algebraic formulas for coding for automatic corrections.

Bail Jumper Caught, Returned For Trial

Paul E. Bradley of Fairfax, who jumped $2,500 bail and failed to appear for trial on an armed robbery charge in Marin Superior Court, was returned to Marin last night from Illinois where he was caught last week.

Bradley, 34, of 103 Redwood Road, and Thurman Levi Thompson, 36, of 88 Rocca Road, Fairfax, were to stand trial Sept. 12 on a charge of robbing a Novato service station at knifepoint Jan. 8. When Thompson showed up, but Bradley did not, a bench warrant was issued for the latter's arrest.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Jerry Herman said Bradley was picked up in Decatur after Marin County authorities alerted police in that city to watch for him. Herman said Bradley lived there at one time and had served a prison term in the 1950s for assault with intent to commit robbery in Decatur. In 1963, according to Herman, Bradley served 150 days in San Diego Jail on a battery conviction.

Bradley was brought back by Novato Patrolman Oliver Sansen and Inspector Lee Ahern of the district attorney's office. He is being held in lieu of $10,000 bail.

Trial of Thompson — whose record includes prison terms for auto theft and burglary, according to Herman—was continued to Jan. 23 after Bradley's disappearance. Thompson is free on bail.

The armed robbery, occurred at 11:21 p.m. Jan. 8, when two men stopped at the Standard Service Station at 7417 Redwood Highway Novato. One drew a knife and threatened the station attendant, while the other rifled the cash box of between $50 and $100.

A car chase followed the robbery. Bradley and Thompson were arrested when police stopped their car on Highway 101 near the Fairchild Semiconductor plant in San Rafael.

Splendid Awards

NEW YORK (AP) — Danny Kaye and former U.S. Ambassador to Japan Edwin O. Reischauer have been honored as "splendid Americans" for their worldwide efforts to dispel the image of the "ugly American." The 1966 Splendid American awards were presented last night by William J. Lederer, co-author of the "Ugly American," on behalf of the Thomas A. Dooley Foundation.

Wilderness Areas Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Harlan Hagen, D-Calif., yesterday advocated designation of wilderness areas in Sequoia and Kings Canyon National Parks, but not at the expense of a year-round resort development in the Mineral King Basin.

Hagen presented his views in a statement submitted for the record of a Park Service hearing held in California on wilderness areas in the High Sierra country.

Hagen said decisions on public land development must be based on "balancing the equities."

"Wilderness has a place in balanced development but the boundaries of wilderness must sometimes yield to considerations of a use suitable for the great majority of people," he said.

Justice Department Reviews Electronic 'Bugging' Cases

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Justice Department is reviewing all its past and present cases to determine whether anyone's constitutional rights have been violated by illegal use of electronic "bugging" devices to gather evidence.

The department disclosed the sweeping review yesterday in a supplemental memorandum to the Supreme Court on a New York income tax evasion case. It asked the high court to overturn the conviction of Joseph F. Schipani because it had used evidence against him which was gathered from bugging operations.

Schipani was convicted of evading federal income taxes from 1956 through 1960 and was sentenced to three years imprisonment and a $12,500 fine. The department admitted, however, that he was convicted on evidence picked up by the FBI when it bugged a business establishment in search of evidence against organized crime.

Downtown Merchants Caught In Middle

It is both hopeless and unnecessary for merchants of downtown business areas in small towns to compete with the large-volume shopping centers, a Marin County planner told Fairfax businessmen yesterday.

Albert Solnit, chief of the county's advanced planning section, told the shop owners they can and do fare quite well "providing goods and services on a human scale, with individually operated shops in a cozy, unpretentious place to shop."

The age of the city's business district should be considered an asset, not a liability, he indicated.

"There is evidence all around that we are now riding a great wave of nostalgia. People are interested in getting something that has been touched by human hands. They want more in their lives that is hand-crafted, human-scaled," Solnit asserted.

Speaking at a luncheon meeting of the Fairfax Merchants Assn., Solnit also presented a graph which he said may indicate just how much good business has been and can be for Fairfax.

Figures on the chart compared, among several Marin cities, the amount of taxable sales, divided by the number of city residents, in proportion to the number of businesses in the cities.

In the period from 1960 to 1965, he said, Fairfax scored highest, with $12 to $13 per business per person living in town. Mill Valley was next, ranging from $10 to $12, Novato $7, San Anselmo $5 or $6, and San Rafael had $3 to $5.

"I'm not sure what this means," he said, "but it seems to indicate Fairfax is doing well."

He said the city's "image" is important for the business district, because people have a special notion about the place where they live and shop.

"I think the board of supervisors was surprised by this fact," he said, "when the people of Sleepy Hollow told them recently, 'We don't mind honking horns on Waldo, as long as, when we get home, it is a place like Sleepy Hollow. We don't want Sleepy Hollow made accessible.'"

He related that the planning department, under contract with Fairfax to develop a master plan for the city, has received the following suggestions from Fairfax residents on the future of the downtown area:

It should have the atmosphere of a village. Commerce should be restricted to the present downtown area and buildings there should be restricted to a two-story height limit. Emphasis should be on restoration rather than modernization. The area should be landscaped.

"The present downtown center of Fairfax is unique," he said, "but unfortunately, it still falls short of distinction. You have to strive for both class and style."

Two Marin Army Men Retire With Parade

Two Marin County residents were among those whose retirement from the Army yesterday was marked by a parade at the Presidio of San Francisco.

They are Maj. Charles W. Cook of 42 Prince Royal Pass, Corte Madera, who retired from Headquarters, Sixth Army, and M Sgt. Roswell H. Glenn of 62 West Crescent Drive, San Rafael, who was attached to the Presidio.

Saturn's Powerful Rocket Booster Test Big Success

BAY SAINT LOUIS, Miss. (AP) — The mightiest rocket booster ever tested by this nation strained against its shackles with a million pounds of thrust today in the first successful captive firing of a flight model.

The S-II-I, troublesome second stage of the Saturn 5 rocket designed to carry American astronauts to the moon, was ignited four months later than was first scheduled.

Space officials termed the six-minute static test an apparent success and said it occurred within the timetable of the "big picture" — to land a man on the moon by 1970.

The firing test simulated the duties of the S-II-I, which will be to ignite after the first stage takes it to an altitude of about 40 miles. It will push the 47-ton Apollo moonship to 100 miles high at speed of over 4,800 miles an hour.

Another static firing will be made in 10 days. If that one is successful, the stage will be shipped to Cape Kennedy to take its place atop the even larger first stage.

The Saturn 5, when assembled, will be more than 300 feet tall.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Off-Beat Philosophies Are Spreading Across The Bay

A couple of years ago, University of California at Berkeley achieved worldwide notoriety because of goings-on that had begun rather innocuous campus speeches in behalf of off-beat philosophies.

It was the year of a presidential campaign, and prominent politicians of one party objected because a long-standing but long-ignored university rule against political speech-making on campus was violated by the other party.

OUT OF THIS combination grew the famous free speech controversy. Marinites sat back in comfortable apartheid and "tch'd! tch'd!" properly over the nonsense across the bay as university officials debated ineffectually over what to do about rebellious students.

The students, with considerable advice from off-campus agitators and under the ostensible leadership of the persuasive Mario Savio, went from speech-making to rioting. They mobbed and wrecked a police car, holding its occupant captive. Still nothing effectual was done. They took over a university building in mob defiance of authority, and screamed "foul!" when minions of the law descended on them and dragged several hundred off to jail.

The stink was bad enough to play a considerable part two years later in the election of a Hollywood actor named Ronald Reagan to the governorship of California.

IT WAS ALL most improper. But Marin residents, safely isolated from Berkeley's barefoot longhairs by the water barrier of San Pablo Bay, assured themselves smugly that "it can't happen here."

Maybe not. But the ingredients are showing up.

There are plenty of the barefoot longhairs at College of Marin. College authorities are chary about enforcing any rule of dress or grooming, feeling this would be regarded as "kid stuff" by their more-or-less grownup students—as indeed it would.

Long hair, unkempt clothes, and bare feet or sandals do not constitute in themselves a rebellion of significance. But some other recent happenings at the college may be more indicative of the trend.

ITEM: On Nov. 15, the Planned Parenthood Assn. of Marin presented a discussion at the college. As almost anyone who knows college youth could have predicted, the question session soon took on some of the aspects of the Kinsey Report. The Planned Parenthood people were quite unhappy afterward.

Item: On Nov. 29, Jefferson Polland, founder of the Sexual Freedom League (long active at Stanford and at that Awful Place Across the Bay), addressed the students, saying his organization welcomes Reagan's election as "we can really use a nice, big persecution."

Item: The following day, a student panel on pre-marital sex was scheduled by the Associated Students. It was called off at the last minute—not because of administration objections, but because of a conflict with another program. It will be rescheduled, student leaders indicated.

STRANGELY ENOUGH, on the night of Nov. 29 Mario Savio himself appeared at the college, but at a meeting attended largely by adults and devoted to the New Politics' opposition to the Viet Nam war. He counseled no student uprising, and the program on which he appeared was quite a few levels higher than that of Jefferson Polland.

The following day, Patricia Maginnis, distributing flyers advertising her course in do-it-yourself abortion, was careful not to pass them out on the campus itself, instead doing so across College Avenue. She said she knew she could not pass out such material on school property.

SHE SHOULD HAVE asked. In fact, she should have been there a day sooner. Jefferson Polland doubtless would have helped pass out the advertising.

The U.C. uproar got out of hand because university authorities hesitated to interfere with students' "free speech."

There was a time when attendance at college carried with it the responsibility of abiding by the school's rules. Disobey the rules, and out you went.

Maybe that was stifling to young egos. But its results did not create "adult backlash."

An "Educational Management Information System" in Pennsylvania will eventually put 500 school districts and 14 colleges into direct communication with a central computer located in the state capital.

Worldwide Redwoods Spread Told

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Giant redwoods, once known only in California, are thriving now in 24 countries around the world and on five continents, the California Redwood Assn. said yesterday.

The association, completing a worldwide survey of forestry agencies, found the emigrating redwoods (Sequoia sempervirens) growing best in climates like that of the 15-county area of their origin—foggy, damp, but mild.

Misty Wales, for example, contains the heaviest timbered area in Britain and the fastest growing coniferous forest in Europe, the association reported.

Residents of the Wye Valley district in Scotland objected to redwood plantings, a British forester reported.

"They reduce the amenity value" of the landscape with out-of-proportion height and foreign appearance, said the Scots.

The survey showed that plantations do well at higher elevations in the tropics. Some 100-footers are growing in Hawaii's Honaunau Forest at temperate 2,000 to 6,000-foot levels.

Marincello Hearing Is Off A Month

Hearing on the legality of a referendum petition on a Marincello access road was continued yesterday in Marin Superior Court until the first week of January for rulings on several questions involved.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson said briefs by the attorneys on issues including whether the county clerk's certification that several petition signatures were unqualified is binding on the court, and whether the court's inquery is limited to the validity of rejected signatures or extends to the validity of all signatures must be received by Dec. 14.

He will rule on these questions at the January session, he said. Open hearings will then be scheduled at the earliest master calendar date for remaining questions

Golden Gate Headlands Committee filed a petition May 11 demanding that the county board of supervisors either negate its action on the access road, or call a referendum.

The petition lacked sufficient qualified signatures, according to a later county clerk's ruling. The current issue is on that ruling. County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney also contends that passing of the road ordinance was an administrative act, rather than a legislative act, and therefore is not even subject to a referendum.

The cost of ridding smallpox from the Western Hemisphere, where thus far 247 cases have been reported this year, is estimated at $16 million.

Berg Says He Confessed To Get Out Of Bad Cell

Ronald Harold Berg, 21, testified in his Marin Superior Court jury trial yesterday that he falsely signed a statement admitting the Aug. 17 armed robbery of Edgewater Inn Motel in Corte Madera because of miserable conditions in the San Francisco City Jail where he was being held.

Berg, arrested by San Francisco police for investigation of another robbery shortly after the motel holdup, said he was confined for five days in a cell which had no running water, no lights, no bedding, and no bed.

He denied the $1,000 robbery, but said he would have admitted anything to be removed from the cell.

His statement, written by pen on legal tablet paper, said he was under the influence of a prescriptive drug, that he tied up the motel manager, took two envelopes from the safe, and robbed a motel patron of $100.

It also said Berg had been advised of his legal rights and waived them. Berg testified no promises were made to him in return for the confession.

The only other defense witness, Michael Henry Honack, 21, testified yesterday of the same conditions in the San Francisco jail. Honack who was arrested with Berg in San Francisco, has pleaded guilty to the Aug. 14 armed robbery of Franchini's Chateau restaurant north of San Rafael. He is to be sentenced Dec. 12.

The defense closed its case following testimony by Berg and Honack. Closing arguments and instructions by Judge Thomas F. Keating were under way today. The case was expected to go to the 10-woman, two-man jury this afternoon.

Berg also faces felony charges of possession of weapons, concealing stolen property, and escape from county jail Nov. 23. He and a companion, Lewis Barton Pettijohn Jr., 33, were recaptured after six hours freedom during which they kidnaped a taxi driver and held a Sleepy Hollow family of three as hostages.

Community Relations Aide To Quit

Bea Duke, acting assistant director of community relations services in Marin City, yesterday said she will resign at the end of June and move back to her home town, Houston, Tex.

"After years of turmoil and raising a child in a ghetto," she said, "I've had it."

Mrs. Duke, who has been active in community affairs for many years, said she will return to Houston to manage apartments owned by an aunt. She moved with her husband to Marin City in 1945, and has worked as an army clerk, teacher and social worker in the community. She and her husband are divorced.

A year ago, she joined the community relations services office at $650 a month.

Mrs. Duke said she had been considering moving back to Texas since 1958, but had remained in the community while her son, George, finished his education. He will graduate in June from San Francisco Conservatory of Music.

American Will Go Free On $11,111 Bail

MOSCOW (AP) — An American is being released on bail of $11,111 from a Leningrad jail today after two months behind bars, but another American is still held by Soviet authorities, the U.S. Embassy said today.

Both face trial on charges of violating Soviet currency regulations.

Craddock M. Gilmour Jr. was being released on bail but Ray Buel Wortham, Jr., who also is charged with theft, was refused bail

The U.S. Embassy said Gilmour and the embassy consular officer, Harlan Moen, who is in Leningrad, had reported that Gilmour is being released tonight, will arrive in Moscow by train Friday. Gilmor of Salt Lake City, Utah, and Wortham of North Little Rock, Ark., were arrested Oct. 1, and charged with violating Soviet currency regulations. Wortham also was charged with stealing an antique statue of a bear from a Leningrad hotel.

The spokesman said Soviet officials said the embassy's request for Wortham's release on bail could not be considered before the court takes up his case. The Russians said this was "because of the nature of his crime," the U.S. spokesman reported.

The embassy posted the 10,000 rubles — $11,111 — after receiving instructions from Washington. Gilmour's father, a Salt Lake City attorney, deposited money with the State Department to cover the bail.

Auto Industry Gets Safety Device List

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The government today officially posted 23 safety standards for automobiles covering everything from headrests and seat belts to signal lights and dashboards.

The regulations, drawn up under the national Traffic Safety Act passed by Congress last September, apply to all cars beginning with 1968 models.

The standards were "initial" requirements. Automakers have until Jan. 3, 1967 to make criticism or suggestions. Under the law, the government will publish its final standards at the end of January.

Initial standards "should not be taken as indicative of the scope or contents of the revised standards to come later," the government said.

Most of the standards outlined by the government already have been met by automakers. They were based on existing standards used by the government and in many cases adopted by industry.

Under the standards, the government required the automakers to include headrests to cut down so-called whiplash injuries, and to eliminate sharp edges found on some sun visors.

Other requirements called for "glossing" bright metal surfaces to cut down glare; eliminating "wheel nuts, wheel discs and hub caps" that could be hazardous to pedestrians, and installing doorlocks that would prevent doors from flying open in collisions.

Today's action was official publication of the standards spelled out in Detroit Tuesday by Dr. William Haddon Jr., head of the National Traffic Safety Agency.

Howard Hughes Visiting Vegas

Last July the 60-year-old industrialist reportedly went secretly from Los Angeles to Boston by train and underwent medical treatment.

The Las Vegas Review-Journal reported that Hughes arrived Sunday from Ogden, Utah. A landowner in this area said Hughes was here "to do some business and relax in the sun."

Grand Jury Indicts Jail Escape Pair

Ronald Harold Berg, 21 and Lewis Barton Pettijohn Jr., 33, were indicted by Marin County Grand Jury last night on joint counts of escape from county jail, and robbery by force and kidnaping of a taxi driver and a Sleepy Hollow family.

Both are scheduled for arraignment in Marin Superior Court on the five-count indictment at 9:30 a.m. Monday. Bail on the new charges is $25,000 each.

Berg, of San Francisco, and Pettijohn, a transient, allegedly wielded pieces of steel legs broken from a jail chair to force Jailer Michael Hicks to release them from a cell Nov. 23.

They are accused of kidnaping cab driver Bruce Hall, 35, of Forest Knolls, outside the courthouse, forcing him to drive them to Terra Linda. They then robbed him of $50, he said.

The fugitives next entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Jorgensen, 510 Fawn Drive, Sleepy Hollow, holding the couple and their son, Larry, as hostages. Berg and Pettijohn took the boy's .22-caliber rifle, and later forced Jorgensen to drive them away from the residence.

They were captured by Sheriff's officers and police near the home when a roadblock was effected. No one was injured during the six-hour episode.

Berg currently is on trial for armed robbery of a Corte Madera motel, Edgewater Inn, on Aug. 17. Pettijohn also faces a felony worthless check complaints and a felony charge of failure to return to county jail from work furlough.

Resolutions Tomorrow From Panel

James S. Goodale, foreman of Marin County Grand Jury, said today that three resolutions — on abortion, county welfare and county salaries—will be released tomorrow, and that the yearly reports by his committees should be completed early in January.

He said all committee research has been completed. Matters being investigated presumably include Marin City violence, complaints of sheriff's officer brutality involving two Negro county jail inmates May 4, charges by Mill Valley undertaker Gerald T. Gooch that assistant coroner William C. Bradley harrassed him, and allegations of improper police and district attorney's office action by John H. McGoran of Corte Madera.

Goodale said next grand jury session is Dec. 14. The panel expects to complete its duties by latter January, he added.

School District Plans Interviews With Architects

Bolinas - Stinson School District trustees expect within two weeks to start interviewing architects who have applied to design additions to Bolinas School, trustee Arthur E. Carpenter said today.

Twelve have applied for the job. If approved by the trustees and voters, the additions would include six classrooms and renovation and conversion of two rooms to offices. Trustees are to set the amount and scope of the bond issue at their next meeting, Dec. 14 at 7:30 p.m. at Bolinas School.

The district planning committee last night reviewed its recommendations, and agreed they were necessary, Carpenter said. The committee also has recommended purchase of four acres adjacent to Bolinas School and eventual sale of the Stinson Beach School site.

Two-Month Sewer Bill Extension

The Novato Sanitary District board last night gave developer Jack West of Bel Marin Keys two months to pay the balance due on sewer connection charges.

West had paid a portion of the fees with understanding that the balance would be paid when sale of the houses went through escrow, said Charles Joseph, engineer-manager of the district.

In the meantime, said Joseph, West has moved people into 28 of the houses without paying the balance of the fees.

The Novato Sanitary District board also:

1. Passed resolutions to start annexation proceedings of five acres at Hill Road and Indian Valley Road and one lot on Bel Marin Keys Boulevard, west of Montego Key.

2. Authorized purchase of $625 in laboratory equipment.

3. Discussed possible questions on garbage collection to be put on the next Junior Chamber of Commerce community attitudes survey.

CBS Chief TV's Election Day Results

NEW YORK (UPI)—William S. Paley, chairman of the Board of Columbia Broadcasting System, yesterday defended the election day practices of broadcasting companies and suggested that voting practices be modernized to keep pace with advances in communications.

Paley said that Dr. Frank Stanton, president of CBS, has proposed a number of remedies to "outdated voting practices." Among the proposals are a uniform real-time election day of 24 hours throughout the country, with simultaneous opening and closing of polls; making election day a legal holiday; nationwide registration for national elections and the prompt introduction everywhere of automatic voting equipment.

Paley said that because networks are quick to predict the outcomes of elections, "we have been accused of such contradictory offenses as making everybody hop on the winner's bandwagon or go to the rescue of the underdog, and at the same time, discouraging the voter from going to the polls at all. Obviously, we can't have done all three, and there is no evidence that we have done any of them."

Larkspur Driver In Fair Condition

A young Larkspur driver was in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital with multiple cuts and bruises.

California Highway Patrol reported a car driven by Stephen F. Christian, 19, of 587 Magnolia Avenue, went off Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near Lagunitas Road and hit a culvert at 11:30 p.m. yesterday. He was taken to the hospital by a passing motorist.

Marincello Hearing Is Off A Month

Hearing on the legality of a referendum petition on a Marincello access road was continued yesterday in Marin Superior Court until the first week of January for rulings on several questions involved.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson said briefs by the attorneys on issues including whether the county clerk's certification that several petition signatures were unqualified is binding on the court, and whether the court's inquery is limited to the validity of rejected signatures or extends to the validity of all signatures must be received by Dec. 14.

He will rule on these questions at the January session, he said. Open hearings will then be scheduled at the earliest master calendar date for remaining questions

Golden Gate Headlands Committee filed a petition May 11 demanding that the county board of supervisors either negate its action on the access road, or call a referendum.

The petition lacked sufficient qualified signatures, according to a later county clerk's ruling. The current issue is on that ruling. County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney also contends that passing of the road ordinance was an administrative act, rather than a legislative act, and therefore is not even subject to a referendum.

The cost of ridding smallpox from the Western Hemisphere, where thus far 247 cases have been reported this year, is estimated at $16 million.

Berg Says He Confessed To Get Out Of Bad Cell

Ronald Harold Berg, 21, testified in his Marin Superior Court jury trial yesterday that he falsely signed a statement admitting the Aug. 17 armed robbery of Edgewater Inn Motel in Corte Madera because of miserable conditions in the San Francisco City Jail where he was being held.

Berg, arrested by San Francisco police for investigation of another robbery shortly after the motel holdup, said he was confined for five days in a cell which had no running water, no lights, no bedding, and no bed.

He denied the $1,000 robbery, but said he would have admitted anything to be removed from the cell.

His statement, written by pen on legal tablet paper, said he was under the influence of a prescriptive drug, that he tied up the motel manager, took two envelopes from the safe, and robbed a motel patron of $100.

It also said Berg had been advised of his legal rights and waived them. Berg testified no promises were made to him in return for the confession.

The only other defense witness, Michael Henry Honack, 21, testified yesterday of the same conditions in the San Francisco jail. Honack who was arrested with Berg in San Francisco, has pleaded guilty to the Aug. 14 armed robbery of Franchini's Chateau restaurant north of San Rafael. He is to be sentenced Dec. 12.

The defense closed its case following testimony by Berg and Honack. Closing arguments and instructions by Judge Thomas F. Keating were under way today. The case was expected to go to the 10-woman, two-man jury this afternoon.

Berg also faces felony charges of possession of weapons, concealing stolen property, and escape from county jail Nov. 23. He and a companion, Lewis Barton Pettijohn Jr., 33, were recaptured after six hours freedom during which they kidnaped a taxi driver and held a Sleepy Hollow family of three as hostages.

Community Relations Aide To Quit

Bea Duke, acting assistant director of community relations services in Marin City, yesterday said she will resign at the end of June and move back to her home town, Houston, Tex.

"After years of turmoil and raising a child in a ghetto," she said, "I've had it."

Mrs. Duke, who has been active in community affairs for many years, said she will return to Houston to manage apartments owned by an aunt. She moved with her husband to Marin City in 1945, and has worked as an army clerk, teacher and social worker in the community. She and her husband are divorced.

A year ago, she joined the community relations services office at $650 a month.

Mrs. Duke said she had been considering moving back to Texas since 1958, but had remained in the community while her son, George, finished his education. He will graduate in June from San Francisco Conservatory of Music.

American Will Go Free On $11,111 Bail

MOSCOW (AP) — An American is being released on bail of $11,111 from a Leningrad jail today after two months behind bars, but another American is still held by Soviet authorities, the U.S. Embassy said today.

Both face trial on charges of violating Soviet currency regulations.

Craddock M. Gilmour Jr. was being released on bail but Ray Buel Wortham, Jr., who also is charged with theft, was refused bail

The U.S. Embassy said Gilmour and the embassy consular officer, Harlan Moen, who is in Leningrad, had reported that Gilmour is being released tonight, will arrive in Moscow by train Friday. Gilmor of Salt Lake City, Utah, and Wortham of North Little Rock, Ark., were arrested Oct. 1, and charged with violating Soviet currency regulations. Wortham also was charged with stealing an antique statue of a bear from a Leningrad hotel.

The spokesman said Soviet officials said the embassy's request for Wortham's release on bail could not be considered before the court takes up his case. The Russians said this was "because of the nature of his crime," the U.S. spokesman reported.

The embassy posted the 10,000 rubles — $11,111 — after receiving instructions from Washington. Gilmour's father, a Salt Lake City attorney, deposited money with the State Department to cover the bail.

Auto Industry Gets Safety Device List

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The government today officially posted 23 safety standards for automobiles covering everything from headrests and seat belts to signal lights and dashboards.

The regulations, drawn up under the national Traffic Safety Act passed by Congress last September, apply to all cars beginning with 1968 models.

The standards were "initial" requirements. Automakers have until Jan. 3, 1967 to make criticism or suggestions. Under the law, the government will publish its final standards at the end of January.

Initial standards "should not be taken as indicative of the scope or contents of the revised standards to come later," the government said.

Most of the standards outlined by the government already have been met by automakers. They were based on existing standards used by the government and in many cases adopted by industry.

Under the standards, the government required the automakers to include headrests to cut down so-called whiplash injuries, and to eliminate sharp edges found on some sun visors.

Other requirements called for "glossing" bright metal surfaces to cut down glare; eliminating "wheel nuts, wheel discs and hub caps" that could be hazardous to pedestrians, and installing doorlocks that would prevent doors from flying open in collisions.

Today's action was official publication of the standards spelled out in Detroit Tuesday by Dr. William Haddon Jr., head of the National Traffic Safety Agency.

Howard Hughes Visiting Vegas

Last July the 60-year-old industrialist reportedly went secretly from Los Angeles to Boston by train and underwent medical treatment.

The Las Vegas Review-Journal reported that Hughes arrived Sunday from Ogden, Utah. A landowner in this area said Hughes was here "to do some business and relax in the sun."

Grand Jury Indicts Jail Escape Pair

Ronald Harold Berg, 21 and Lewis Barton Pettijohn Jr., 33, were indicted by Marin County Grand Jury last night on joint counts of escape from county jail, and robbery by force and kidnaping of a taxi driver and a Sleepy Hollow family.

Both are scheduled for arraignment in Marin Superior Court on the five-count indictment at 9:30 a.m. Monday. Bail on the new charges is $25,000 each.

Berg, of San Francisco, and Pettijohn, a transient, allegedly wielded pieces of steel legs broken from a jail chair to force Jailer Michael Hicks to release them from a cell Nov. 23.

They are accused of kidnaping cab driver Bruce Hall, 35, of Forest Knolls, outside the courthouse, forcing him to drive them to Terra Linda. They then robbed him of $50, he said.

The fugitives next entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Jorgensen, 510 Fawn Drive, Sleepy Hollow, holding the couple and their son, Larry, as hostages. Berg and Pettijohn took the boy's .22-caliber rifle, and later forced Jorgensen to drive them away from the residence.

They were captured by Sheriff's officers and police near the home when a roadblock was effected. No one was injured during the six-hour episode.

Berg currently is on trial for armed robbery of a Corte Madera motel, Edgewater Inn, on Aug. 17. Pettijohn also faces felony worthless check complaints and a felony charge of failure to return to county jail from work furlough.

WINTER STORM CAUSES TROUBLE — The 4,000-ton City of Midland 41, aground on a sand bar at Ludington, Mich., since Sunday, was pulled free yesterday, and all 128 passengers and 56 crewmen were glad to be ashore. Meanwhile, search continued today for the remaining 28 who perished in the sinking of freighter Daniel J. Morrell in Lake Huron on Tuesday. (AP Wirephoto)

Winter Blast Leaves Death And Misery

Snow and cold ushered in the month of December over much of the nation today.

The storm system which smothered large areas of the upper Midwest and Appalachian mountains with hip-high snows abated but left a legacy of death and misery.

The three-day storm which lashed the Great Lakes with up to 70 miles an hour winds broke an ore freighter in two, resulting in death to 28 crewmen. Search continued today for the remaining bodies.

Only one crewman was known to have survived—a burly father of four. He told of huddling under three bodies on a raft for 36 hours before a helicopter lifted him to safety yesterday.

The ship went down in 60 mph winds and 20-foot waves early Tuesday. But its fate was unknown until the first frozen body, clad in a life jacket, was picked up by a passing freighter. The discovery unfolded the worst Great Lakes disaster since the freighter Carl D. Bradley perished with 33 men in 1958.

The death toll from weather causes mounted yesterday as authorities dug out communities and travelers isolated by snow drifts. Ohio counted 13 weather-related deaths; two hunters were found dead in central Pennsylvania; and Michigan had three in addition to the dead sailors.

Elsewhere, temperatures dropped to the 30s and 40s along the East Coast as far south as Florida. Light snow was reported in the northern Rocky Mountains and rain fell along the Pacific Northwest to northern California. The southern half of the nation enjoyed mostly dry and clear conditions.

Aerial Fire Truck Bid Is Awarded

Crown Coach Co. of Los Angeles was given a $70,368.78 contract for an aerial truck last night at a special meeting of the Novato Fire District board.

This was lower than the $71,142 bid of Van Pelt Co. of Oakdale and lower than the original bid of Crown Coach of $71,438, which was later modified downward, said Fire Chief George Cavallero.

After the original bids were called, specifications were changed to call for a diesel engine and automatic transmission. Other features of the truck will be the 85-foot boom, and a 1,250-gallon-per-minute pumper. It is to be delivered in about one year, Cavallero said.

Speck Granted Venue Change

CHICAGO (AP) — Judge Herbert Paschen of Circuit Court today granted a change of location to an unspecified area for the murder trial of Richard Speck, accused of murdering eight student nurses.

Judge Paschen said he would specify later the location for the trial Dec. 19.

The change of venue was granted on a motion by public defender Gerald Getty, Speck's lawyer.

The ruling was entered after William Martin, an assistant state's attorney, said he would not oppose Getty's motion.

December Dawns; Tax Time Again

December, the month of Santa Claus and taxes, dawned today, and while there are 25 days until Christmas, Marin property owners have just 12 days to put up the first installment of property tax payments.

Deadline will be 5 p.m. Dec. 12 on the first half of the tax bill. The second installment is due April 10.

Percentage of early payments made so far is down from previous years.

"It seems we're going to have a bigger last-minute rush than usual," Joseph Coffrini, chief of the tax division at the Civic Center, said today.

To date, $4,820,134.72 has been paid. Coffrini expects 52 per cent, or $24,443,179 of the total county bill to be paid by first installment deadline. The first installment payments run more than half as some owners pay the entire bill in December.

Payments postmarked prior to midnight on Dec. 12 will not be subject to the 6 per cent penalty.

Usually the deadline is the 10th of the month, but this year, that falls on a Saturday so the deadline is delayed.

The county's total bill this year, including cities, school districts and special districts, is $47,006,914.98.

Britain Buys Television Film On Warren Report

NEW YORK (AP) — The British Broadcasting Corp. has purchased a two-hour film challenging the work and findings of the Warren Commission on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Emil de Antonio, coproducer of the film, said yesterday that BBC had paid $40,000 for the film, which he said was "the most money that has ever been paid for a film for a single transmission by anybody in the United Kingdom."

He said the telecast in Britain would be on Jan. 29 and theater showings would probably begin a few days earlier under separate negotiations.

The film, which cost $68,000 to produce, is called "Rush to Judgment," and takes its title from the book by Mark Lane. Lane, the other coproducer, interviews 18 persons in the film, which he describes as "a brief for the defense."

Distribution of the film in the United States is still being negotiated.

Burglars Hit Construction Site Twice

Burglars struck twice at the Santa Venetia construction site of the Marin Jewish Community Center, according to sheriff's officers, making off with a total of $1,200 worth of tools.

Denny Roger of Kay Construction Co., 19 Dorian Way, San Rafael, told deputies two electric saws and a drill were taken from a tool box in a shed at the site, 200 North San Pedro Road, during the weekend. Later, he reported, a shed door was pried and a surveying instrument, tripod, and a floor stapler were taken.

Florin Edward Gidley, 13 Hillside Avenue, Kentfield, reported that burglars unsuccessfully tried to enter his home by cutting two window screens, then breaking a small hole in a basement window.

Burglars also tore hasps loose on the front door of a barber shop at 508 Drake Avenue, Marin City, but did not enter. Owner is Earley D. Brown of San Francisco.

Former Official Facing Charges

SANTA ANA (AP)— The Orange County Grand Jury has indicted Louis T. Vanscourt, former county chief deputy public administrator who was arrested in Hawaii.

Vanscourt, 45, was charged yesterday with grand theft, embezzlement, misappropriation of public funds and failure to keep public funds as prescribed by law. He disappeared last Oct. 30.

The 12-count indictment accuses him of taking a diamond ring, a mink stole, a color television set and $15,866 in cash from the estates of four deceased persons.

GETTING OUT OF THE GHETTO

Robert and Mary Markham relax at their home outside Perris, Riverside County, where more than 1,000 Negro families have moved for a better life than they could find in Los Angeles and its suburbs. "We decided to get out of L.A. because the kids where we lived were running dope," Markham explained. Negroes have been buying two and one half and five-acre lots in Perris Valley since 1925, but the greatest buildup has come since the Watts riots. (AP Wirephoto)

Marin Capital Punishment Foes Praise Brown, Urge More Mercy

By STEPHEN COOK

Marin County foes of capital punishment today praised Gov. Edmund G. Brown for commuting the sentence of a San Quentin convict slated for execution Tuesday, but said they thought he could do better.

"We are very pleased he did this," said Rev. James E. Symons of St. Andrew Presbyterian Church, Marin City, "but our hope is that this is not the end of it. There are still 63 men on Death Row waiting for their day. I hope the governor does all he can before leaving office and I hope the pressure does not stop when Reagan takes office."

CLERGY PETITIONS

Reverend Symons and seven other clergymen and laymen from Marin County churches signed a petition Nov. 22, asking Brown to use "maximum executive clemency" for the Death Row prisoners.

Yesterday, Brown said he will commute to life in prison, without chance of parole, the death sentence of Ernest Leroy Jacobson, 36, convicted of drowning his 2-year-old dauthter in Los Angeles in 1964.

A majority of the State Supreme Court justices must approve the governor's decision, since Jacobson was twice convicted of felonies. The court has rarely overruled such a decision by the governor.

JACOBSON CALM

On Death Row yesterday Jacobson greeted the news with a broad smile, according to San Quentin Associate-Warden James W. L. Park.

"He was fairly calm, though," Park said. "The men on the row don't take too much for granted and he is aware that the action has to be approved by the supreme court. The men of the row were pleased. They've been concerned that if one goes, they'll all go."

Brown, in commuting the sentence, said the clemency hearing for Jacobson held Tuesday showed he killed his daughter "while befogged with liquor . . . I'm convinced the best interests of justice would be served by commuting this sentence."

Brown will hear another appeal for clemency in Sacramento on Monday, from Dovie C. Mathis, 20, convicted of a San Jose holdup-murder and slated to die Dec. 14.

ULLNER'S VIEWS

Frederick L. Ullner of Santa Venetia, who organized the Committee for Abolition of Capital Punishment and is asking that Brown commute all sentences of men on Death Row, said:

"A lot of our hard work and effort has borne fruit. We will continue to try and persuade Brown to commute the sentence of the other men on the row. If anyone comes up for execution under the Reagan regime, we will sit-in at his office."

Rev. John D. Riley of St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael, another who signed the clergymen's petition, said:

"We are very happy about it. This is what we hoped the governor would do, not only for Jacobson, but for the other 3 men on the row. One of his last remarks in his election campaign was that he would like to be remembered as the compassionate governor. This is one way to ensure that."

OTHERS PLEASED

Said Rev. Jack Bartlett of the Community Church of Mill Valley: "I'm very glad he did it and I would hope that he could commute the sentences of the rest of them. There has been nothing to show capital punishment as a deterrent to taking a life."

Rev. Bliss W. Bellinger of Faith Lutheran Church said: "I'm happy he did it. Some of us are a little concerned with the attitude of the up-coming governor toward clemency."

Proposal Would Give Marin Two Votes On ABAG Board

A proposal for representation to the Assn. of Bay Area Governments' proposed regional government would give Marin County two voting delegates, one from the board of supervisors and the other from among the county's mayors.

This was disclosed today by County Supervisor Peter H. Behr and City Councilman Michael A. Wornum of Mill Valley, both members of ABAG's Goals and Organization Committee, which met last night to revamp plans for the regional government.

They said that, under the plan approved by the committee last night, Marin would have two of the 32 voting seats in the proposed regional governmental body.

BOTH APPOINTED

The first would be appointed by and from the board of supervisors, the second by and from the Marin County Council of Mayors.

Largest block of voting delegates would go to Alameda County, with seven. Santa Clara County would get six, the City and County of San Francisco five, San Mateo County three, and Marin, Sonoma, Solano and Napa Counties two each.

As proposed, ABAG's regional government would have legislative, regulatory and taxing powers in the fields of refuse disposal, regional open space and parks, regional planning and airports.

Behr and Wornum appeared with Mayor J. Wayne Womack of Novato this morning on radio station KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board" program to discuss the proposed government.

ELECTION SPLIT

Principal area of disagreement among the men was the question of representation. Womack and Behr favored representatives elected directly by the people, saying supervisors and councilmen have little time for more governmental duties.

Wornum said: "A super-government, directly elected by the people, would make the situation more confused. An erosion of local institutions would begin."

All three said some form of regional government under ABAG control is necessary if local government is not to be disenfranchised by single-purpose agencies, appointed by the governor of a state whose balance of power has shifted to the southland.

The program, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be broadcast from a tape recording Sunday at 12:30 p.m.

College Study Plan Has Produced Good Results

A special summer course at the College of Marin, designed to make college students of high school graduates who had not planned to attend college, has met with considerable success.

College of Marin counselor Fielding L. Reese recently completed the first follow-up study of the program, which is in its third year.

Of the 60 Marin High School graduates selected by high school counselors for the program this summer, 41 are now enrolled at College of Marin, and half of these plan to complete four-year programs in college, Reese said.

The concentrated six-week course stresses reading and remedial English. Counselors meet with the students several times each week for aptitude testing and occupational counseling.

Tests given before and after the course showed that on the average, the students' reading ability increased from high school sophomore to senior level. Tests also showed improvemen in English composition and grammar.

Reese said students who tested lowest in reading at the start of the course showed the greatest increase in reading ability.

Of the 25 students who took part in the 1965 program, Reese found that 17 enrolled in the 1965 fall semester at the college, and 11 are still enrolled. They are in such varied programs as electronic data processing, general business, auto technology, physical education and liberal arts.

Late Shopping Hours

Most Mill Valley stores will start Christmas shopping hours tomorrow and will remain open until 9 p.m. Mondays through Fridays through Dec. 23. Most will not be open late Saturday nights.

U.S. Gives More Money To College

The federal government has anted up another $64,541 toward College of Marin's new $3,589,000 science building.

Announcing the supplemental grant, Rep. Donald H. Clausen (R-First District) said the U.S. Office of Education approved supplemental grants because of reallotments of Title 1 funds.

Norman Bird, College of Marin's business manager, said the college had already received $8,450 in federal funds in July towards the building, and hopes to be eligible for considerably more.

The new science building, scheduled to start construction in the fall of 1967, will be erected on Laurel Avenue adjacent to the new Fine Arts building, now nearing completion.

The science building has been enlarged in scope and will also house health services and engineering departments. It is expected to take two years to complete construction.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Tubby Teen-Ager Advised To Diet After 19 Food Centered Years

DEAR HELEN:

I have two problems. First I am very much overweight, which makes me look older than 19. I just can't lose, have been tubby all my life.

Second, all the fellows I seem to attract are deadbeats. Most are around 25, without money, car or even decent lodgings. They're usually in debt up to their ears.

I'm not rich, but I do have a job, and it never ceases to amaze me at the audacity of these moochers when they ask me to pay their way, or give them money. When I don't, I never see them again, which suits me fine.

Isn't there any other kind of man?—Y.G.

DEAR Y:

I'll give it to you straight: the rejects latch on to you because they figure a tubby gal may be so grateful for a man she'll help support them.

With the aid of a doctor (not a diet clinic!) you can trim down, if you really care about your looks and your future. But, remember, "Where there's no will, there's a weigh." It takes a lot of "caring" to reverse the habits of 19 food-centered years. —H.

DEAR HELEN:

My boy friend and I broke up last month and we decided to stay good friends. But this kind of friendship is ridiculous.

You see, he likes another girl and is forever asking me to find out things about her. He calls me up and talks about nothing but her. The other night I cut him short and started talking about a boy I think I like and he rung off fast by saying he had some homework to do.

I don't want to hurt his feelings and I do want to keep his friendship, but how can I politely let him know his new girl friend leaves me cold?—TIRED OF IT ALL

DEAR TOIA:

Keep changing the subject—and if he's too dense to take the hint tell him you're not good at lovelorn advice—and get back to your homework.—H.

DEAR HELEN:

At a slumber party Truth or Consequences game I chose "truth," and they asked, "Who is your secret love?" Well, I've been crazy about this boy I'll call Bill for three months, but nobody knew, especially Bill. So it just slipped out—I said "Bill ———" before I thought. He's very girl-shy. I'm considered pretty popular, I guess. He was just beginning to notice me.

It was all over school next day, and, of course, Bill got kidded. Now he won't even look at me. He probably thinks I said it just to embarrass him or make fun of him. What shall I do?—BLABBERMOUTH

DEAR BLAB:

Try truth. Send Bill a note of apology for causing him embarrassment and explain his name—"just slipped out, because you really are an interesting guy I'd like to have as a friend." Who knows, this may be the beginning of a beautiful . . .

Hereafter, remember: Say unto others only what you don't mind having repeated—and this goes double for slumber parties! —H.

DEAR HELEN:

I was supposed to get home from a football game at 10:45, and we got home at ten minutes until 11. For this I was grounded and can't go to the dance next week. Can I help a traffic jam? Isn't this cruel?—NOT SOWING WILD OATS

DEAR OATS:

It seems pretty rigid, but then I don't know all the facts. Was this your first wild oats, or the last straw?—H.

'NIGHT BEFORE CHRISTMAS'?

Work-Lazar Engagement Announced

Pork, Beef Cuts In Plentiful Supply For Holiday Tables

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The holiday food abundance continues. Pork and beef stand out as the red meats in best supply. Also, broiler-fryers are plentiful and reasonably priced complements to the meat list, according to the Consumer and Marketing Service.

Steaks and roast cuts and ground beef are the major items in beef.

The list of pork plentifuls starts with bacon, then Boston butt cuts, chops, hams, and finally spareribs.

Vegetables in good supply in most areas, are: green beans, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, celery, lettuce, onions, potatoes, and squash.

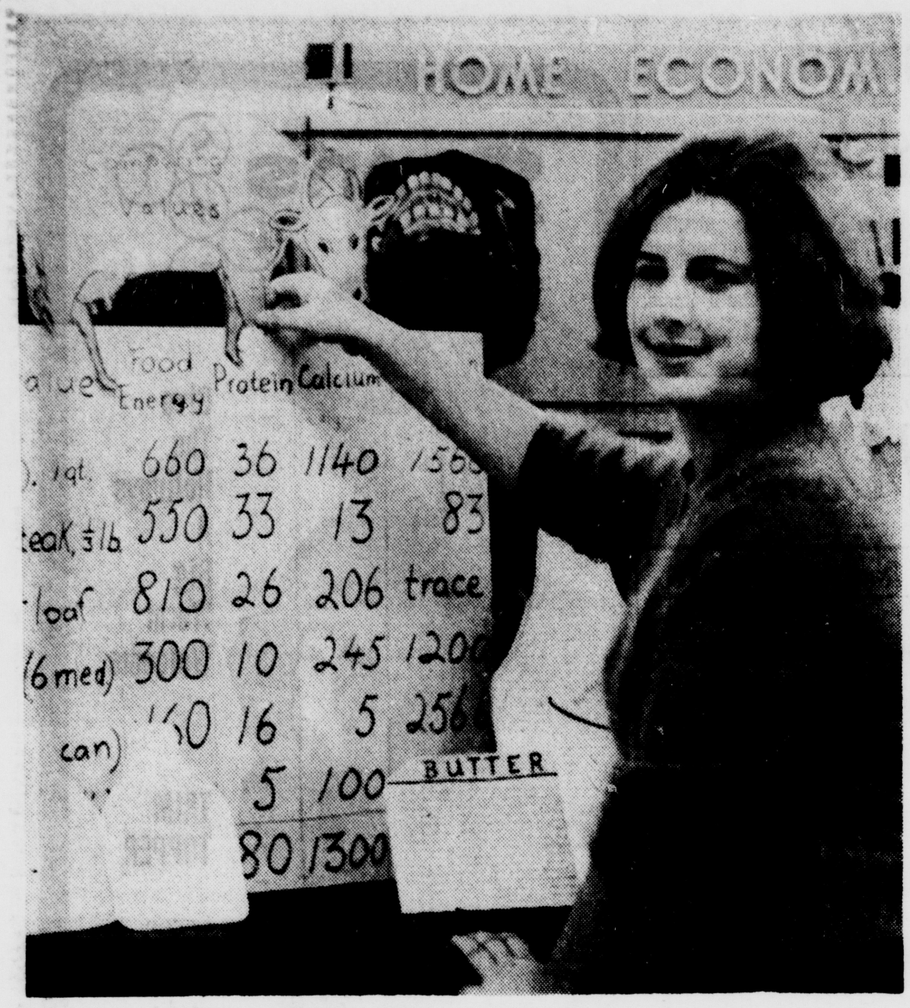
Tomales High School Junior Opens Co-Op Center Display



TOMALES HIGH SCHOOL junior Norah Angress sets up her exhibit at the Co-op Center in Berkeley showing her history of milk which is displayed this week. She will be on hand Saturday to demonstrate yogurt recipes. The Marin Co-op Center Council suggested Norah's display.

Historical facts about milk and milk products unearthed by 15-year-old Norah Angress, a junior at Tomales High School. Norah's story of milk, presented in display form, is on exhibit this week at the Co-op Center at 1414 University Ave. in Berkeley, at the suggestion of the Marin Co-op Center Council.

Norah's home is her parents' dairy ranch at Blake's Landing, on the east side of Tomales Bay, where Herbert and Dina Angress have 150 milking cattle and 150 calves. The Angress family came to West Marin 18 years ago, under the sponsorship of the Anton Kooy family.

Sharing her parents' enjoyment of ranch life, Norah is a devoted 4-H member. "My 4-H projects were such a help in preparing this display," she says enthusiastically. "I've been in 4-H ever since I was nine.

"My favorite activities were the horse project — we have three — vegetable growing, and raising guide dogs for the blind. One of my guide dogs is 'on the job' now in Sacramento, another's in training in San Rafael, and in two weeks I'll have a new puppy to bring up," she adds.

Food preparation is another of Norah's favorite activities, and she has invented 12 recipes using yogurt. "My salad dressing recipe tastes as if it were the sour cream kind, but it's low-calorie — good for dieters."

Norah will demonstrate how to make her yogurt recipes at the Berkeley Co-op, 1414 University Ave., on Saturday, at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. and she will answer questions about her history of milk display.

Shopping in the Village with Carol King and Pat Reynolds

Town & Country Village

Welcome to "Christmas Village!" If you don't believe us, take a look for yourself . . . Yuletide decorations and even Santa. Saint Nick will be visiting The Village with candy canes gifts for all children with adults . . . his hours are noon to four . . . Fridays and Saturdays, and everyday from Dec. 19th to 24th. Village shops are open evenings now from seven 'til nine . . . happy shopping!

Just heard about a fabulous Luncheon-Fashion Show from LAILA OF NASIMO'S. The show is for the benefit of UNRWA scholarships and takes place at Omar Khayyam Restaurant in San Francisco on Thurs., Dec. 8th at 12:30. (Phone 383-2056 for reservations.) Among the fashions featured will be LAILA'S own at-home line of Arabic Caftans, made of Arabic fabric from Damascus and featured in the January Vogue. (If you've never worn this flowing, flattering style . . . you've been missing something!) An Arabian Nights theme will be carried-out by authentic Arabic cuisine and music. By the way, when you travel south, be sure to visit the new LAILA OF NASIMO'S location in the Palo Alto Town & Country Village.

Shimmery, slinky, floaty, outrageously pretty . . . all apply to the holiday cocktail dresses at SUSAN'S FASHIONS. This collection offers many styles . . . street length, floor length, separates in skirts and tops. Beautiful colors in a wide selection of fabrics . . . some are hand-beaded or sequined . . . others of Matelasse weave. All are perfectly lovely.

Enchanting miniature Christmas trees at ALBERTA OF MARIN . . . also those pretty little Italian lights to brighten each tiny branch. (These lights are long-burning and have replaceable bulbs.) Flash . . . here's a too-good-to-miss buy . . . 50% off now on ALBERTA'S fine imported Christmas cards.

Ribbons, wrappings, trimmings, tie-ons . . . ROJEAN'S CARD & PARTY SHOP has a marvelous selection of all the "Christmas-y" paper things you want . . . many choice, small gifts here too.

"Dear MUTTS OF MARIN . . . Son-of-a-gun, that Sergeants Sentry Flea Collar really works. Have worn mine for three months now and am delighted to report that fleas have fled and ticks "took off" . . . never to be seen (or felt) again. Thanks a heap. As ever, Lisa."

We frequently stop to "catch our breath" at The HICK'RY PIT. This spot has excellent coffee and marvelous pastries to top it off. When arriving home, shopping-weary, and the kitchen absolutely defeats us . . . we often head right back to The HICK'RY PIT (with family in tow) for a wonderful, informal dinner that is always enjoyed by each and every one of us.

We recommend KUBLAI KHAN for holiday entertaining. Decor and table appointments are lovely and the food (Chinese, Polynesian and American) is superb. Banquet facilities here to accommodate up to 75 . . . equally nice arrangements for smaller parties too.

. . . noticed wonderful party dresses at EXPECTATION MATERNITY SHOP. Styles for day and evening in a variety of fabrics and bright colors . . . (a fine selection of neutral shades too). We imagine mothers-to-be will steal many a party scene this season, looking lovely in this flattering "waiting wear" from EXPECTATION MATERNITY SHOP.

New items at VILLAGE JEWELERS . . . men's and women's wallets, key cases, cigarette cases and pocket secretaries. This collection is genuine leather and available in many styles . . . and you can buy these handsome accessories in sets or "singles." We particularly like one of the feminine styles that appears in an ice blue shade of soft pigskin.

More than ever, we love to browse through FIESTA CANDLE SHOP at this time of year. Christmas time and "candle time" always seem to go together . . . whether the flickering candlelight reflects from a tinseled tree in your home . . . or a gift of candles reflects your warm thoughts for another. A truly outstanding selection of candles and decorative accessories here, that make unique and welcome gifts.

. . . excellent leisure-wear department at THE LITTLE DAISY. Their robes make wonderful gifts . . . and are perfect for holiday at-home attire. This shop carries a wide selection of robes that don't look "bath robey" . . . not only are they comfortable but, with a sprinkling of jewelry, are just right for relaxed holiday evenings with the family and/or guests. Other hostess styles at THE LITTLE DAISY too . . . long skirts and stunning culottes (the latter in a jersey fabric with smashing prints . . . or in new, shimmering metallic materials).

The winsome appeal of Joan Walsh Anglund is well represented at CAPRICORN BOOKS. Besides her charming children's stories, they carry the matching prints and dolls. (Prints are available either framed or unframed, individually or in boxed sets.) CAPRICORN BOOKS also features those wonderful Dr. Seuss books. And, hey, gang . . . look who came back! It's that droll fellow, The Cat in the Hat, making the scene as a 20" high stuffed doll.

Saw a great gift idea at THE HEARTH SHOP . . . specially treated pine cones and bark . . . some in their own mailing carton. Cheerful and long-burning, they'll make flames dance in beautiful colors to mesmerize young and old alike. (Prices, $1.50 to $16.00.) Also at this shop . . . fireplace grates, including the hard-to-find narrow size for shallow fireplaces.

Tres chic hostess separates at MONKEY BUSINESS. Long skirts, quilted, in cotton with a bright print or in jewel tone velvet (the cotton, in a short length too) . . . wrap-around or zip-back styling makes for easy-to-wear at-home fashions or perfect after-ski wear. Noticed in the gift boutique at MONKEY BUSINESS, beguiling ceramic figures to hold tiny bouquets. These little charmers are about 6 to 9 inches high and must be seen to be appreciated . . . their winsome designs defy description.

. . . marvelous gift boutique at THE CAROUSEL . . . many ultra-feminine items such as their new line of Rudi Gernreich lingerie, in absolutely bewitching colors and styles. New to this shop, unusual and antique telephones . . . a perfect answer for that "has-everything-person."

Welcome to the "my-feet-hurt club!" We'll be holding regular meetings at L'ENTREE during this busy shopping season. Howcome? (So glad you asked . . .) Popularity of this spot is currently due to those delicious casserole dinners we take home after shopping . . . they always get rave notices from family and guests . . . and Louis Reimers, Master Chef at L'ENTREE gets our weary, but oh-so-grateful, heartfelt thanks.

Kidnaped Cab Driver Has New Trouble

Bruce Virgil Hull, Yellow Cab driver kidnaped last week by escaping county jail prisoners, was treated last night at Marin General Hospital for a cut eyebrow suffered in a collision at Third Street and Tamalpais Avenue, San Rafael.

Police said Hull was backing his car on Third at 9 p.m. when it collided with one driven by Dolores E. Rupiper of 105 Marin Street, San Rafael.

It was Hull's second mishap in 27 hours, according to San Rafael police. At 6:47 p.m. Tuesday, his car, eastbound on Second Street, collided with one southbound on D Street, driven by Carol Lynn Osborne of 20 Locksley Lane, San Rafael. No one was injured.

On Nov. 23, Hull, 35, of Forest Knolls, was waiting outside the county jail in San Rafael to pick up a prisoner leaving on work furlough, when kidnaped by escapees Ronald H. Berg and Louis B. Pettijohn. They forced Hull to drive them to the top of the ridge dividing Terra Linda and Sleepy Hollow, where they left him tied up but unharmed in his taxi. The escapees were captured a few hours later.

Tribunal Refuses Prop. 1A Action

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The State Supreme Court refuses to interfere with Proposition 1A becoming law.

The court yesterday denied a petition by Wayne E. Knowles, retired contractor and president of the Taxpayers Union, to prohibit Secretary of State Frank Jordan from certifying the measure, which was passed on the November ballot by a vote of approximately three-to-one.

The proposition revises parts of the state constitution and, among other things, allows the state Legislature to increase its salaries. Knowles contended that the measure didn't adequately explain the legislative salary matter.

Industrialist Says Wagner Offers Hope For Mankind

Richard Wagner's "Ring of the Nibelung" operas hold promise "that through man's conscience he will develop his inner strength for right over wrong," according to Jack Wolfram, former vice president of General Motors.

Wolfram gave his impressions of two of the "Ring of the Nibelung" operas, "Siegfried" and "Gotterdammerung," last night at Olney Hall of College of Marin.

Accompanied by tapes of the operas, he narrated, recited lyrics and gestured before a small but attentive audience of about 30 persons.

The operas also hold promise that man "will put his conscience in control of instinct and learn to put knowledge to work for the benefit of mankind through education," he said.

Then Wolfram said the operas pose these questions:

"Does not man's technical knowledge make it possible for him to build heaven on earth, if he will only put his mind to it?

"Does not historical knowledge make it possible for the first time to avoid those deadly shoals on which every past civilization had its own Gotterdammerung (twilight of the gods) and destroyed itself?"

Is it not up to us, who have freedom to choose and education, to use the power of knowledge for the benefit of mankind and man's development? Wolfram asked.

"Does not freedom of choice have to be earned each day anew?" he inquired. Everyone must involve himself with things of consequence if we are to avoid a modern "Gotterdammerung."

The questions, he said, "are for you and me to answer by our deeds."

Wolfram's lecture was part of the college's concert-lecture series. Next in the series will be a lecture by Cornelius B. Weber, philosophy instructor at College of Marin, on "The Glory That Was Greece" at 8 p.m. next Thursday.

Jazz Tribute Slated

Peter Clute of San Anselmo, pianist with Turk Murphy's jazz band, will host a tribute to jazzman Darnell Howard at 3 p.m. Sunday at Earthquake McGoon's in San Francisco. The Turk Murphy, Golden Gate, Jelly Roll and Bay City jazz bands will appear, he said.

Film Festival Set In Mill Valley Hall

The special activities committee of Homestead Valley Improvement Club willl hold a film festival Saturday at 8 p.m. at Brown's Hall in Mill Valley.

Films will include an original film by David Gealey, Tamalpais High School senior. Others will be "Fatal Glass of Beer," "Monro," "Neighbors," "Time for Burning," and "Breathing Sticks."

Church Leader Asks Poverty War Attention

GENEVA (AP) — Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, new general secretary of the World Council of Churches, called on the U.S. government today to pay more attention to the war on poverty than the war in Viet Nam.

Dr. Blake, 60, former chief executive of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., officially took over his post today from the retiring general secretary, W. A. Visser't Hooft. The Dutch theologian had been council chief since its inauguration in 1948.

MORE HOPEFUL

Dr. Blake, a frequent critic of U.S. foreign policy, told a news conference: "The war on poverty is much the more hopeful war the U.S. administration is currently engaged upon. The heart of the Viet Nam problem, from the point of view of the United States, is that we have tended for too long to base foreign policy on simple opposition to the expansion of communism."

Dr. Blake said that under his leadership the World Council will "always encourage" dialogues between Christianity and communism. He said the differences between the two sides do not mean that both cannot profit from "intellectual conversation."

OTHER CHURCHES

He called on the Roman Catholic Church to join with the other Christian churches in a general world peace offensive.

The World Council embodies more than 200 Protestant, Anglican, Orthodox and Old Catholic churches in some 80 countries.

State Planning Officer Resigns

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The man in charge of trying to assure that California's government growth is orderly and prepared for the future has resigned.

State Planning Officer Leslie E. Carbert, 44, said yesterday he has sent a letter of resignation to Gov.-elect Ronald Reagan. He said "the issues of the state planning function must be the central concern of the chief executive of the state . . ."

The planning office is part of the State Finance Department and its head gets $16,212 a year.

Carbert was named to the job two years ago by outgoing Democratic Gov. Brown. He has been on leave from the Pacific Gas & Electric Co., but said he wasn'e sure whether he would return.

ANTHROPOLOGIST'S IDEA

More Golf Means Less War Leanings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The possibility that anthropologists have unwittingly discovered an aspect of human behavior which could unlock the doors to world peace is under some discusssion here.

A number of studies have accumulated in government archives which show that some primitive peoples work off frustrations by banging the ground with sticks.

The significance of this activity for modern man was almost universally overlooked until a political science student detected the extraordinary parallel between ground-pounding and the modern game known as golf.

From this he has postulated — tentatively — the theory that a nation's peace-loving quotient can be accurately established by counting the numbers engaged in golf.

Preliminary investigation indicates that where golfing is widespread no dictatorship can long survive. The anonymous scientist's initial findings are impressive and are here reported for the very first time.

For example, there are no known golf courses in the Soviet Union, Red China, Poland, Romania, Bulgaria or Albania.

The Communists reportedly object to golf on the grounds that it creates capitalistic class distinctions. Obviously, anyone who plays golf requires considerable capital.

Of equal significance is the fact that the English-speaking peoples, who have a long and unbroken history of self-government, are the world's most avid golfers.

For example, there are 8,667 golf courses in the United States and around eight million golfers. The Australians have approximately 1,100 golf courses and 500,000 practitioners, while the English and Scottish countryside maintains around 1,000 courses for 1.5 million golfers.

The French supposedly have a passion for reason and logic, but the fact remains that their political history has been a turbulent one. This is not particularly surprising, since France has only 80 golf courses and around 7,500 golfers.

Phone Firm Debate Rates For No-Toll

Eventual toll-free telephone service linking San Rafael, Novato and Ignacio seemed more certain yesterday as the two phone companies involved narrowed their discussion to how it should be paid for.

Representatives of Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. and Western California Telephone Co. wound up two days of testimony at a State Public Utilities Commission hearing in San Francisco, no closer in their views on what rates should apply, but raising no objections to such a service.

Chief stumbling block to be hurdled is a formula for division of revenues from such an extended service area between the two companies involved. Western California serves most of Novato, PT&T the rest of the area involved.

The commission's hearing officer, T. Everett Emerson, set Dec. 15 and 16 for the completion of testimony by PT&T at the State Building, 455 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco.

The completed testimony will then be reviewed by Emerson and presiding Commissioner George Grover for submission with recommendations to the utilities commission.

Transit System Is Half Started

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Bay Area's new $1.2 billion 75-mile rapid transit system, one of the world's largest engineering projects, is about one-half under construction.

Its completion goal is 1971. Its object is to provide the most modern, fast, automatic and efficient rapid commuter service existing in the world today.

The officers and engineers of the Bay Area Rapid Transit System (BART) predict both goals will be met.

When finished, it will be the world's first fully automatic train control system as well as the first completely automatic self-service fare collection system.

It hadn't rained yesterday, so street and sidewalks were dry in San Rafael as this lad walked home from school. But young adventure is not to be denied. Bay Ferry Plan Gets ABAG Boost

By JOHN F. KEARNEY

SAN FRANCISCO—Supporters of ferry boat service with drive-on and drive-off buses between Sausalito and San Francisco got a boost today from the Assn. of Bay Area Governments.

A high-speed ferry service as a means of solving the commute problem was cited in ABAG's preliminary regional plan as presented to members of the Bay Area Transportation Study Commission here.

The study commission is partly financed by ABAG and both have worked closely together in the past.

James H. Hickey, ABAG planning director, said: "We gave a great deal of thought to the problem of Marin. You can either travel under, through, on, or over the water. We think traveling on the water continues to have a great potential."

He foresaw the use of commuter buses driving onto the ferries in Southern Marin and driving off in San Francisco.

Ferry boats, he said, would eliminate the need for a second bridge, but not necessarily that for a second deck on the Golden Gate Bridge.

This might not be the case if Marin developers changed from their present tendency and began to build in a more scattered way, he said.

Of the four different concepts for regional government which the association studied, Hickey said it gave first priority to the city concept which pressed for the development of the Bay Area to be confined to cities, with their own identification.

He said that by 1990 the population of the Bay Area may grow to 7,200,000 people, with the automobile continuing to be the main form of transportation. A massive new program of freeways is called for to deal with the 1,500,000 more cars on the highways in the next 25 years.

One concept under study called for superhighways at which the maximum speed would be 80 miles an hour and which would run through and across the state. There would also be special expressways which would be built similar to the present county roads with emphasis placed on the minimum noise and the maximum view.

Richard M. Zettel, study director of the commission, said that although the ABAG proposals were tentative and preliminary, they provided a "valuable input" to the commission's own program. He pointed out that the commission and ABAG would be working together to promote the "environmental development aimed at the planning goals of the Bay Area community."

Stolen Boat May Be Sailing To Australia

A $25,000 ketch, stolen last weekend from Sausalito Yacht Harbor, may be on its way to Australia, police said today.

The Tee-Hi, a 35-foot ketch owned by Charley E. Petersen of Sacramento, was last seen at its berth early Friday. The owner of a boat in an adjacent berth, Donald R. Monaco, told police that an Australian teenager lived aboard the boat for two days before it vanished. Monaco said the youth, 18 or 19 years old, identified himself as James A. Donavan.

The Australian consulate had no record of Donavan, police said.

The youth told Monaco, who had never met Petersen, that he had just sailed the ketch from Australia, and was waiting for two men to help him sail back home.

The boat was reported stolen Monday by Richard Miller, an owner of Bauman Brothers, Marine Supplies. Miller discovered the theft when he found the youth's description did not match Petersen's.

Monaco said the young man was six feet tall, weighed about 190 pounds, had blonde hair and wore "Australian clothing."

Booked On Traffic

Emery Jean Stevenson, 54, was arrested yesterday at his home at 35 Wood Street, San Rafael, on seven warrants for traffic violations. Bail was set at $237.

BOARD INSURANCE SHIFT CHALLENGED

Spokesman For Losing Firm Says Board 'Misled' On Dividends, Expert's Cost

By RICHARD LYTTLE

Marin County supervisors thought they were making a big saving on premiums for employee life and hospital insurance last week, but it appeared today they may have been misled.

On recommendation of retired insurance man Harry C. Duncan, the board switched last week from Travelers Insurance Co. to West Coast Life Insurance for the group coverage.

Duncan told the board the move would cut the county's 80 per cent of the premiums by $13,740 a year.

Not mentioned, either in Duncan's presentation or in the recommendation of the county administrator's experts, was the dividend history under Travelers.

Carl J. Van Heuett, group manager for Travelers' San Francisco office, said today he would mention the dividends and other matters to the board next Tuesday.

"I believe they were misled," he declared.

The dividends are made according to claim history, and Marin's have been running about 50 per cent, which is fairly high, Van Heuett said. The 1963 dividend was $14,445, the 1964 dividend was $16,168, and the dividend for 1965 will probably be $17,000, despite having to pay coverage for two deaths in that year, Van Heuett said.

County Administrator Alan Bruce said Duncan was asked about dividends and assured the administrator's staff there would be much the same payments.

Bruce said that the matter is being restudied in light of Van Heuett's complaint.

Duncan for 10 years held the same position with Travelers that Van Heuett holds, and at one time was Van Heuett's boss.

Van Heuett also took exception to the "free work" Duncan had done for the county. He said in renewing the policy, the agent would receive about $200, but in shifting to a new policy as is being done, the agent will receive about $5,000. The board in shifting policies, designated Duncan as agent.

Van Heuett, who said his firm was not asked to send a representative to the board last Tuesday, declared there are "no bargains in group insurance."

Hearing Officer For Route 17 Announced

Hearing officer at the Route 17 freeway hearing on Dec. will be Harold Del Ponte, chairman of the board of supervisors of Del Norte County.

Robert Jahrling, executive assistant of the State Division of Highways, announced Del Ponte's appointment today. He said the hearing will be held as scheduled, at 10 a.m. at the Rafael Theater in San Rafael.

Slain Couple's Friend Not At The Funeral

Mexican authorities continued their investigation today into last week's murder of a Mill Valley couple in Mexico, Hermann Hofer, 28, and Marjean Weis, 30, amid reports that Hofer, a Sausalito garage owner, had made frequent trips across the border recently.

A joint funeral for the slain pair, who had planned to be married, was held yesterday at the First Presbyterian Church in San Rafael.

Hans Hofer, who lived with his brother and Miss Weis at 216 Ethel Avenue, Mill Valley, was reported to be considering closing down the H & H Garage in Sausalito which he owned with his brother.

Mgr. Robert Grunnett said today Hofer may close the business and go back to school, perhaps in Boston.

Center Postal Unit Still Remains Cloudy

There was some question today whether the Corte Madera Shopping Center will actually get a self-service postal unit the U. S. Post Office had already announced would be located there.

The problem, according to postal officials is reluctance of the Milton Meyer Co. of San Francisco, which operates the shopping center, to sign the contract to install the slab on which the automated postal unit was to be located.

"We've been going on and on with them, but we don't seem to be able to get them to sign a contract," said John McMahon, head of the real estate branch in the post office regional director's office in San Francisco.

"It's all up in the air," Corte Madera Postmaster Edward J. Victor said. "We thought it was all settled, but they haven't signed the lease."

Victor said that if a lease is not signed this week, the U.S. Post Office Department may decide to locate the automated postal unit somewhere else. McMahon said several shopping centers in Southern California are interested.

The Corte Madera Merchants Assn. has already agreed to foot most of the cost to the center in installing the unit, which will cost the post office $15,000, and the center about $3,500. Center merchants have agreed to pay $2,250.

John Whelan, head of property management ta Milton Meg Meyer, denied there was any problem He said contractors would be at the center today to plan the slab.

10 Apply Before Deadline For Marin College Board

Applicants are John R. Kunst, painting contractor; Edward K. Wachsman insurance agent, and Dr. I. D. Rotkin, director of cancer research for the Kaiser Foundation in Oakland, of San Rafael;

Francis J. Carr, of Sausalito, manager of Pacific Gas and Electric Co. tax department in San Francisco; Mrs. Elizabeth L. Emerson of Mill Valley, real estate broker; Alan D. Euwen of Belvedere, a vice president of Pacific Molasses Co. of San Francisco;

Henry G. Hayes of Kent Woodlands, an attorney; Thomas A. Skornia of Ross, an attorney; Mrs. Robert Georgette Vilas of Nicasio, a housewife, and Dr. Albert J. Brinckerhoff of Novato, an eye doctor.

The size of the board was increased from five to seven in the Nov. 8 election.

The applications will be reviewed at a Tuesday night special board meeting in Room 25 of Harlan Hall, and the board will appoint two new trustees next Thursday at its regular meeting. Time of the Tuesday meeting has not been set.

Accidental Rifle Shot Hurts Two

A Lagunitas machinist and his wife were both wounded by a single bullet fired accidentally from a .22 caliber rifle at their home last night.

Eldon Carl Valasco, 30, suffered a left hand wound. His wife, Lesta Grace Valasco, 28, was hit in the left thigh. Both were treated at Marin General Hospital.

Sheriff's deputies said Valasco related that he returned to his home on Cintura Avenue about 8 p.m. and found that a friend, Vincent Martinez of Willets, had visited and left Valasco's rifle on the living room mantel.

Valasco said he took the weapon to a bedroom, was joined by Mrs. Valasco, and was checking the gun with his left hand over the barrel's end when it discharged. The bullet passed through his hand and struck his wife, who fell on the bed.

Both were taken to the hospital by a neighbor.

Huge Shirt, Blouse Contract Cemented

TOKYO (AP) — Four major Japanese textile companies are reported to have concluded a contract to export some 300,000 dozen shirts and blouses made of polyester and cotton to the United States. Total value of the shipment is estimated at $3,150,000.

This would be the largest single deal of its kind with the United States.

Attitudes Seem To Aid Longevity

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) —Certain social and psychological factors may help determine who lives to a ripe old age.

A survey of a rural Pennsylvania community by Joseph and Jean Britton, a husband and wife research team at Pennsylvania State University, indicates that women live longer than men because apparently the attitudes a woman holds, and general feelings of satisfaction and morale are more importantly related to her survival than the activities she carries out.

They also found that men who were better educated and men and women whose family wage-earner was in a higher status occupation tended to live longer than their fellows.

Woman Reports Her Auto Hit

A Mill Valley woman complained to California Highway Patrol yesterday that a neighbor's auto hit her car while it was parked in her carport. The patrol already had a record of an accident involving the same car an hour later.

Barbara Jean Hutchinson of 37-A Villa Garden Drive said Dorothy Mae Foley of 34-C Villa Garden Drive backed out of her own carport about 9:30 p.m. Wednesday and hit the Hutchinson car, also damaging a pool table and outboard motor stored in the carport.

At 10:30 p.m. Miss Foley, 57, was injured when her car hit a chain link fence around the swimming pool at the Villa Garden Apartments in Mill Valley. She told the patrol she would see her own doctor.

New Attraction

LONDON (UPI) —Monaco may soon be getting its first bowling alleys and bingo parlors. Prince Rainier told the British Broadcasting Corp. that some visitors to his tiny principality weren't Monte Carlo Casino types and he thought a bit of bowling and bingo might be an added attraction for tourists.

Water District Probes Fish Raising Price

The price of raising fish in Marin County, 20 cents for the State Fish and Game Department, but $1 per fingerling for Marin Municipal Water District, caused the water district's board yesterday to ask the state for a less expensive fish trapping operation at Nicasio Dam.

A five-year-old agreement with the Fish and Game Department is up for renewal but board members were reluctant to continue it at the present cost.

Gen. Mgr. William R. Seeger said it costs the district $6,000 a year for the seven-month trapping program, plus overhead, which he figures is about $1 per fish.

Without the program, fisheries biologist Earl D. Gibbs told the board, the district's operation would block the normal cycle of silver salmon, which are let out periodically ot find their way downstream to the ocean.

The department figures it costs the state about $1 to $2 per pound to raise steelhead trout and silver salmon, or about 20 cents each, Gibbs said.

Could hatcheries supply fish for planting at less cost? Directors asked Gibbs. "State hatcheries are already crowded; it would be difficult to provide space for this operation," he told them.

Gibbs said he would recommend the Fish and Game Department review the value of raising fish in Nicasio Reservoir to the water district, fishermen and the state.

The Marin Municipal Water Board Also:

1. Accepted a low bid of $199,274.78 by Vincent Rodrigues Construction Inc. of Hayward for installation of pre-stressed steel water pipes and construction work involved in the first phase of installing 5,400 feet of line from Ross Reservoir to the Ross firehouse.

2. Authorized Seeger to hire John King of Petaluma to appraise 25 acres of property adjacent to Phoenix Lake, at the request of the Town of Ross, which has indicated it might purchase the property and operate its picnic area.

3. Awarded Johnson Pump Co. of Pasadena a $5,114 contract for a booster pump for the pumping station at Bel Aire in Tiburon.

4. Authorized purchase of $304 worth of office furniture from San Quentin Prison.

5. Complied with a request from Tiburon Fire Protection District that the water district apply to the Housing and Urban Development Agency for a federal grant to enlarge and add lines for fire protection in Tiburon. Seeger estimated the job would cost about $180,000 and that the district might be able to get 50 per cent from the federal agency.

6. Took no action on a proposal that the district enter a joint agreement for a feasibility study of Walker Creek watershed which would cost the state soil conservation service $25,000, Marin County $5,000, North Marin and Marin Municipal Water districts each $10,000. Director Robert G. Anderson thought it was unnecessary and a waste of money.

7. Heard Seeger report the district is up to 63 per cent capacity in water supply.

8. Approved a new lease starting Jan. 1 for the State Division of Highways for a separate antenna on Mount Tamalpais and a generator the highways division has been sharing an antenna with the California Highway Patrol on the mountain. New lease is for $1,850 per year, up $650 from the former lease.

9. Agreed to buy three more service trucks at Seeger's recommendation.

10. Authorized Seeger to offer E. R. Farny $1 per foot for 316 feet of Meyer Road in San Rafael.

11. Adopted a resolution annexing Santa Margarita Valley Park to the district.

12. Authorized call for bids on San Rafael corporation yard property.

13. Entered into a 50-50 fireline extension agreement with the City of Fairfax for $6,000 to replace old lines.

14. Heard overtime costs for October were $7,000.

15. Granted a request by County Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom to house a district fire truck at the county fire department in Woodacre.

16. Approved appointment of Seeger to the American Water Works Assn. executive committee.

Highway Fuel Taxes Decline

SACRAMENTO (AP) — November Highway fund revenues from gasoline and diesel fuel taxes totaled about $50.1 million, a slight decrease from a year ago, State Controller Alan Cranston reported today.

Cranston said about $47.5 million came from the gasoline tax and amost of the rest came from diesel fuel taxes. He reported the total was about 2.5 per cent less than November, 1965.

About $27.9 million of last month's revenues went to the state highway fund and the rest went to cities and counties, Cranston said.

SMOKE CALMS HIS NERVES?

Civic Affairs Council Joins 17 Protestants

Directors of the Marin Council for Civic Affairs last night joined the protest against all the possible routes for Highway 17 extension proposed by the State Division of Highways, and asked for a study of "balanced transportation."

MCCA President Edward J. Neumeier reported that director Margaret Azevedo, also chairman of the county planning commission, protested last night's action.

Mrs. Azevedo asked directors to back the latest resolution on the controversial freeway. This was prepared by the planning department, shown supervisors Tuesday, and referred to the planning commission for study next Monday. Supervisors will consider it again on the following day.

The MCCA resolution, to be presented at the Division of Highways' Dec. 8 hearing at the Rafael Theater, asks study of a multitude of things, including two additional routes, rebate of state funds if a less costly route is chosen, review by architects and landscape architects, reversable lanes and aisle for rapid transit. It is the same resolution adopted by seven civic clubs at a Tuesday night meeting in Fairfax.

Directors discussed again, but reached no conclusion on the proposal that the council take over operation of the Citizens Advisory Committee for the Development of Marin, a group necessary to assure federal housing aid.

Neumieir said that an executive committee recommended that the advisory committee put the proposal to supervisors, but directors wanted delay to work out some assurance the council would not lose its independent status. The proposal will be considered again Dec. 28.

Police Check Report; Trio Found Dead

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Autopsies will be performed today on three persons who apparently died of carbon monoxide poisoning while preparing a Thanksgiving dinner.

The bodies were discovered late yesterday, nearly a week later, when police forced the front door of a three-room flat in Bernal Heights.

The victims were Juana Rodriguez, 23, a catering company employee; Gloria Gonzalez, 29, a sewing machine operator, and Henry Arica, 31, a soil research engineer.

Romulo Arica, brother of one of the victims, called police yesterday and said his brother had left early last Thursday to have dinner with his girl friend and had not returned.

Officers Frank Watts and Grand Fahs forced entry to the girl's flat and found a wall furnace in the hallway burning with the walls nearby badly charred and plaster crumbling from the heat. A turkey was stuffed and ready for the oven in the kitchen refrigerator and peeled vegetables were found in pans on the stove.

The bodies were found in the front room and bedroom of the flat.

PG&E Warns On Service Swindle

PATTERSON (AP) — Pacific Gas and Electric Co. officials warned today that men posing as PG&E employees have been making service charges to homeowners in the San Joaquin Valley.

One woman was told that PG&E was putting in new high-voltage lines and the men painted the base of her home with aluminum paint—telling her that this would act as a conductor. They charged her $111.

All PG&E employees carry identification, the company said, and do not charge for service calls. The story told by the men was entirely erroneous, the company said.

Hussein Loyalists Open Fire On Syrian Saboteurs

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI)—Arab Legionnaires loyal to King Hussein fought two sharp battles during the night with a Syrian sabotage group, a military spokesman said today. He reported three Syrians wounded, one seriously.

FIRST BATTLE

The first battle broke out around midnight when Jordanian soldiers found a Syrian sabotage group attempting to damage public buildings, bridges and military communications near the border town of Irbed, the spokesman said.

The Legionnaires opened fire with light machineguns and hand grenades and the Syrians returned the fire.

The spokesman said one infiltrator was badly wounded in this action and three others were arrested.

TWO MORE FOUND

The Jordanian patrols continue the search and early today found two more of the men believed to have been involved. Another fire fight resulted and "the two were wounded but escaped into Syrian territory."

Syria claimed earlier that the Jordanians had opened fire on "refugees" who had crossed into Syria from Jordan and that one was killed. Damascus said the incident took place in Syrian territory.

The Jordanian Military spokesman said the arrested infiltrator admitted they were attempting to carry out acts of sabotage and had actually planted explosives. The explosives were found before they did any harm.

Cairo and Damascus Radios have broadcast open appeals to anti-Hussein groups in Jordan to overthrow the young monarch, considered a moderate by the pro-Soviet Arab factions. Whether this was a plot to try to bring Hussein further into disfavor remained to be seen.

No Clues Found In Auto's Exam

San Francisco police found no clue to the mysterious death of Norman Louis Haunstetter in their examination of his car, which was found in San Francisco last Wednesday.

Larkspur Police Chief Howard Clark today said not a single finger print was found anywhere on the car, although the car had been stripped and the trunk forced open.

The 36-year-old San Francisco bartender's body was found under the Bon Air Bridge in Larkspur Nov. 8. Police believe someone hid the body there about three weeks before it was found. An autopsy revealed that Haunstetter had taken morphine shortly before his death, but apparently not enough to cause death.

Mill Valley Artists' Workshop Proposed

Formation of a workshop for the performing and visual arts was proposed last night by Mill Valley Art Board.

The workshop would be aimed at activities families could share, and would be staffed by teachers in a variety of arts, City Planning Director Harvey E. Bragdon explained.

The workshop could be in a vacant commercial building, he said, with owners of commercial property attracted to the tax advantages of renting to a non-profit corporation. The board agreed to explore the proposal.

The five-man board deferred action on proposed use of the golf clubhouse as a center for the performing arts, pending appointment by Mayor Albert E. White of two board members to represent the theatrical and musical arts.

The board reviewed a draft of an ordinance making it an official commission. The city council will consider the ordinance Dec. 19, Bragdon said.

The board set its next meeting for next Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the golf clubhouse.

Final Arguments In Wilson Case

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Final arguments were in progress today in the trial of painting contractor Max Ward accused of murdering labor leader Dow Wilson.

The case may go to the jury tomorrow morning.

Ward took the stand to testify yesterday that he had not offered bribes to anyone to testify in his defense and had not offered any money to Harry Hermes, a former trustee in the San Francisco County Jail.

Hermes had testified that Ward offered him $5,000 to corroborate a conversation he never heard and that he got a $30 down payment from Ward's wife.

West Marin Dairyman's Body Discovered In Barn

Ferdinand James Terza, a 33-year-old Fallon dairyman, was found dead of a shotgun blast to his face last night, in a small barn behind the family ranch house.

It was a self-inflicted wound, according to Asst. County Coroner William C. Bradley. He said the dead man still held the gun in his hand and had left a note saying he was depressed.

Luigi Terza, the dead man's father, said his son left the house, saying he would visit a friend, at 8 p.m. Tuesday. He said he did not notice until yesterday that his car was still at the ranch, Bradley reported.

The senior Terza found his son's body in the small barn, Bradley said, with his hand still grasping the double-barreled shotgun. Bradley placed time of death at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The note, addressed to no one in particular, said Terza was depressed over business pressures and the death of his mother, Maddolena Terza, last July, Bradley said.

The body went to Redwood Chapel in Novato for autopsy, the coroner's office said. Funeral arrangements are pending at Sorensen's Funeral Home in Petaluma.

Cuban Refugees Sing The National Anthem

MIAMI (UPI)—A planeload of Cuban refugees, the first of 45,000 expected in the second year of Operation Freedom-from-Castro, tearfully sang "The Star-Spangled Banner" today in a thankful tribute to the United States.

The Cubans were greeted with a giant birthday cake as they arrived in chilly Miami on the first anniversary of the freedom airlift from Fidel Castro's Communist island.

The first known autopsy performed in North America took place in 1535 when early Canadian settlers were dying of scurvey.

INDOOR HIBACHI FANS: TAKE A TRIP TO JAPAN

CHICAGO (AP)—If you like to whip up an authentic Japanese dinner by cooking indoors on a hibachi, Japan is the place to do it.

That was the advice today from the National Safety Council which noted that dwellings in Japan are considerably more airy than those in the United States and carbon monoxide poisoning is not a hazard.

The council said some Christmas gift merchandisers are offering Oriental—and American-style grills for cooking with charcoal at the dining room table or in the kitchen.

Their use in enclosed areas, the council said, "can cause deadly quantities of carbon monoxide to accumulate."

LBJ Takes Another Look At The Economic Picture

The Texas White House said the Chief Executive reviewed by telephone latest economic reports with Gardner Ackley, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers. Ackley will fly to Texas tomorrow.

Acting Press Secretary George Christian said Johnson worked at his ranch desk early this morning. He planned to put several more hours of work in at his office at the federal building in Austin.

This was the third straight day Johnson has flown 65 miles from his ranch to work in Austin.

Christian called inaccurate reports that the administration will approve an emergency stop-gap food agreement for India to help stave off famine.

Reports said a new agreement was under consideration to provide more than 500,000 tons of wheat and other grains to India.

Reporters pressed Christian for a breakdown on Johnson's plan for a $5.3 billion cutback in federal programs. He said an item-by-item program is not yet available.

Bomb Planted In Jet Airliner

CHICAGO (UPI)—A gas bottle bomb was found aboard a United Air Lines 720 jetliner today shortly after an intruder knocked out a mechanic at O'Hare International Airport, police said.

John Tews, a member of the United Air Lines ground crew, told police he was hit on the head by a stranger dressed in a black coat and hat who he found standing in the doorway

The bomb was made out of a liquor bottle filled with gasoline and capped with a four inch long wick to which a string of fire crackers was attached.

It was placed in plain view in the buffet area where meals are prepared for serving to passengers.

Ideal Location For 'The Birds'

BREMERHAVEN, Germany (GF)—On the North German seacoast between the Elbe and Ems rivers, fishermen are saying their favorite grounds would provide a perfect setting for Alfred Hitchcock's "The Birds."

In fact, earning a livelihood is becoming more and more difficult because of the swarms of sea gulls, which can no longer be controlled even by poisoning.

Each morning, the gulls swoop down to cheat fishermen of larger catches they formerly enjoyed. It is now estimated that the birds are costing German fisheries about 2,500 million dollars each year.

Farmers and scientists fight 10,000 kinds of insects that may reduce abundant food supplies in the U.S.

Today is Thursday, Dec. 1, the 335th day of 1966 with 30 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning stars are Mars and Jupiter. The evening star is Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1917, Fr. Edward Flanagan founded Boys Town in Omaha, Neb.

In 1953, the New York Stock Exchange announced that for the first time in history investors could buy stocks on the installment plan.

In 1958, fire swept through Our Lady of the Angels, Catholic school in Chicago killing 93 children and three nuns.

In 1965, the Havana airlift to Miami began after an agreement was reached with Cuban Premier Castro. Up to 4,000 Cuban refugees per month were to be flown to Florida.

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey, Western District headquarters. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Occasions Arise When Bridge Book Has To Be Thrown Out

It's very comfortable to stick to the book: If anything then goes wrong, nobody can find fault with you.

This is true enough in average games, but in a good game you are expected to do your own thinking instead of hiding behind a book.

JACK LEAD

South carefully discarded a low diamond.

South ruffed the spade continuation, drew one round of trumps and set up the diamonds by taking the top cards and ruffing once. Then he led a trump to dummy and threw two clubs on the good diamonds.

South would go down if he trumped the first spade.

He would have to give West a diamond trick, and West would then shift to clubs. East would defeat the contract with two club tricks.

B ETTER CHOICE

In most bridge games nobody would think of blaming West for his opening lead. He led his partner's suit—just as the book advises.

If he thinks, West should see that he will probably have no other chance to lead.

EAST'S SITUATION

East cannot need a spade opening lead to get whatever tricks can be won in that suit; but it is quite possible that East needs a lead in the unbid suit to get his tricks there.

For this reason West should lead a club, and South would go down. East takes two clubs, and tries to take a high spade. South ruffs but must eventually lost a diamond.

It is usually wise to lead your partner's suit, but there are exceptions to all rules.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ None
♥ K Q J 9 8 7 4
♦ K 8 5
♣ 9 7 2.

ANSWER: Pass.

The high-card strength is not quite enough for an opening bid of one heart, but the hand is too good for a shutout bid. Pass and show your strength by bidding later.

Rattlers Migrate As Seasons Change

STERLING, Kan. (UPI) — George Stout, a high school sophomore, recently killed 20 rattlesnakes on a road near here. Natives say cold weather was approaching because the snakes were migrating in search of shelter.

Droves of rattlesnakes migrate in the spring when it is fairly certain there will be no more cold weather, and again in autumn before the first cold spell.

WHY BUY NOW?

1.

Just So Much Land Available

There are approximately 57,230,000 square miles of land surface on this old earth. And of that there is just so much for Marin County home sites. Land values through the years have increased as roads and highways improve.

Increased Population

By 1970 over half of the population of the United States will be under 25. Some experts predict the population is going to increase by an estimated 100 million people during the next 30 years. Where are they all going to live?

3.

More People in Home Buying Bracket

The age group which buys the largest number of single family homes is from 30 to 34. Many good buys in existing homes are on the market now and the so-called "tight money" has not materially affected buyers applying for FHA, GI or VA loans.

A Hedge Against Inflation

Many economists agree that buying a home is a great hedge against possible inflation. Instead of spending money you are investing it. You also enjoy the pride and joy of ownership of the home that reflects your way of life.

Tax Deductions

When you buy a home you can deduct from your income tax return every penny you pay in interest on your home loan. This can be a sizable deduction. You are not able to deduct rent receipts though.

Wage Increases Reflected in Building Costs

Whenever skilled labor receives an increase in wages these increases, in one way or another, are passed along to the consumers. This holds true for wage increases for unskilled labor and for those receiving the minimum wage.

Trend of Interest Rates

Over the past several months interest rates have inched up. They may stabilize although some expect them to climb. At the moment they may be lower than they will be later on.

Good Buys Are on the Market Now

New real estate becomes available every day as family situations change by expansion, transfer or death. If your credit standing is good let your real estate broker help you explore the various financing means which are available today.

Mental Health Hearings Slated

SACRAMENTO (AP) — An Assembly subcommittee will hold public hearings this month in Oakland and Los Angeles to consider its recent report on mental health commitments in California.

The report by the Ways and Means Subcommittee on Mental Health Services said that many persons were committed to mental hospitals unnecessarily.

The Oakland hearing will be Dec. 5 and the Los Angeles hearing Dec. 12, Chairman Nicholas C. Petris, D-Oakland, said today. He said the subcommittee wants reactions from legal and mental health experts.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

VAN DELLEN

A few years ago we received the following letter: "My sister's daughter has ringworm of the scalp. My children are invited to a party she is giving for her youngster. Her doctor said the condition is contagious and she is quite put out because I won't let them go. Would you advise me to expose my children to ringworm?"

No, because the causative fungi are easily passed from child to child. Some ringworm organisms also are transmitted by animals and, in rural areas, certain cereals harbor the fungi. At any rate to keep peace in the family we hope they postponed the event until the disease was brought under control.

RINGWORM OF the scalp occurs mainly in school children but is found occasionally in infants and adults. The circular patches are bald or studded with broken hairs. Although the skin is red, scaling, and crusted, the lesions do not burn or itch.

The diagnosos is easily made with a Wood's light that emits a monochromatic ultraviolet ray. When infected hairs are exposed to these rays in a darkened room, they emit a greenish-white fluorescence. Direct microscopic examination of the affected hairs is a more specific test and may be needed in questionable cases.

Griseofulvin tablets have revolutionalized the treatment of infections of the scalp by all species of ringworm. The medicine is taken for 10 days to 3 weeks. An anti-fungal ointment also may be recommended to eliminate the organisms on the dead hairs. Some physicians suggest shaving the scalp after a few weeks as an added precaution to prevent the spread of the disease to other members of the family.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

TENSE MUSCLES

H. E. writes: You say that psychogenic rheumatism is pain in and about the joints, muscles, and tendons without evidence of arthritis. Does our emotional make-up have anything to do with it?

REPLY

Yes, the word psychogenic means of emotional origin. Most victims of this condition develop pain during periods of stress and strain. Symptoms are less noticeable when stressful situations abate.

TENDER SHINS

L. H. writes: What causes tenderness of the shin bone? I do not recall any bump or bruise.

REPLY

Spontaneous bone hemorrhage, neuritis, and bone infections are possibilities. Occasionally injury is so trivial as to be overlooked. Generalized aching also occurs during infections such as influenza. Now and then athletes develop shin splints after running on hard surfaces.

BRACES OR BELTS

F. E. writes: Which is better for pants support: Suspenders that leave the abdomen free or a belt that compresses the inner organs?

REPLY

There is no particular advantage in giving the abdomen its freedom, nor will a belt injure the internal organs by pressure. Most men follow their own preferences—that is, they use whichever holds up the trousers better.

RADIUM CONCEPTION

Mrs. F. P. wirtes: Can a woman who has had radium treatment become pregnant?

REPLY

This depends upon the organ or tissue that was treated. In all probability conception can occur if the ovaries are functioning.

Contractors Object To County Hiring Rule

Contractors and contractors' representatives attending a pre-bid conference at the Marin Civic Center yesterday objected to the county's proposed minority hiring clause in the contract for the $1.4 million community mental health center to be built at Marin General Hospital.

Objections were based mainly on additional paper work, complications in contracts, and the argument that the Marin requirements, intended to expand an existing executive order for all federally assisted jobs, would probably accomplish little.

Bill Riker of the Associated General Contractors told county officials that he saw little chance of getting bids "on this basis."

Ben Oretsky of Wright and Oretsky declared that contracts are already so complicated that many are reluctant to bid on federal jobs.

County Public Works Director Donald R. Frost asked if the consensus was that the contractors simply wanted a notice that the federal executive order is in effect and that the county requirement for regular reports and assistance for minorities in putting them on the job be dropped.

L. S. Arnts of Arnts Construction Co. declared there should be more emphasis on the apprenticeship programs in the trades and that this should be spelled out in the county document. He objected to further paper work with no proof that it would accomplish anything. Oretsky agreed.

Robert Brauer, executive officer of the Human Rights Commission, said the federal executive order is an open end requirement with no specifics. The county clause would provide specific requirements so the contractor would know where he stood.

Some said they still did not know enough specifics.

Car Sky Hook For The Stalled

HAUPPAUGE, N.Y. (AP) — A sky hook to lift stalled autos from traffic bottlenecks has been proposed in a state legislative committee.

Sol Wachtler, supervisor of the town of North Hepstead on Long Island, told the Joint Legislative Committee on Metropolitan Affairs heliopters could patrol all commuter traffic in New York City and adjacent areas.

According to his proposal, helicopter lifting lines could be attached to a disabled car and hoist it out of the way to let traffic flow past the spot.

The copters would cost about a million dollars each, Wachtler said.

V.A. Hospital Aide Awarded Top Honors

CINCINNATI (AP) — The U.S. Veterans Administration last night awarded its highest honor for medical research to Dr. Leo E. Hollister, associate chief of staff at the VA Hospital in Palo Alto.

Dr. Hollister received the William S. Middleton award at the 17th annual VA medical research conference here. He was honored for his work on the characteristic reactions to drugs used to combat severe mental disturbances.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Marilyn Monroe Special: Tasteful

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Some years ago I was assigned to do detailed research for Paris Match magazine for a story the French publication was planning on Marilyn Monroe. Most of the research, as I recall, was to concern her dreadful childhood, and when the teletype operator here finally sent off the thousands of words, he walked over to our desk, visibly shaken.

HER PLIGHT

"I never realized she had it so bad," he said. I hadn't realized it either until going about the point-by-point fact-gathering, and while typing up the notes I had been shaken, despite my lack of enthusiasm for Miss Monroe as a performer and my near-total disinterest in the personal lives of film and television stars. To this day, I recall the incredible, heart-rending experience she had as a child in a foster home where she was the last to bathe in water used first by the other members of the family.

THE SUBJECT

The grim life and times of Miss Monroe—and they were, above all, grim—were the subject of a one-hour documentary last night on the television series called "ABC Stage 67." The production was called, fairly enough, "The Legend of Marilyn Monroe," and the narrator was John Huston, who directed the first picture that brought her to major attention, "The Asphalt Jungle," and who also directed the last movie she made, "The Misfits."

The immediate question that has been asked here in Hollywood is whether the documentary should have been made because of its very personal nature, and whether it was therefore a tasteless project. The very idea that Hollywood, of all places, should be concerned with tastelessness is positively hysterical because it has been one of the film industry's chief assets. Furthermore, it is rather difficult to imagine the life of a movie sex goddess without such a quality—despite Miss Monroe's child-like, touching appeal in real life, and her later gallant attempts at an escape from the tasteless environment.

No—it seemed somehow right that commercial television, whose wholly mass approach and glorification of instant celebrities comprise the most destructive force of our times against taste, should have presented this documentary. And no, honestly, I don't think the hour was a tasteless endeavor. I don't think Huston would have been any part of it if it had been. I think, in fact, that Terry Sanders, the producer-director who also wrote the script with Theodore Strauss, did an exceptional job in assembling the story of Miss Monroe's endless, tragic pursuit of herself, although an hour is not enough time.

Where the documentary often stood out was in its unspoken, visual editorial comments. As an example, there were scenes illustrating the sheer embarrassment of participating in almost any kind of Hollywood press conference involving a star. Another example, there was a sample of the sickening experience of having to interview a celebrity who is in distress. To interview anyone in distress is bad enough, but too often a meeting with celebrities under such conditions collapses inescapably into a tragicomedy. It is simply awful.

MISUNDERSTANDING

I personally wished there had been more illumination of the often unbelievable misunderstanding of Miss Monroe's problems by some of the important people in this town near the end of her short life—they who were happy to exploit her popularity but failed to help this major star when she needed it. They were cruel, almost impersonally, because this town is an extreme case of the survival of the fittest, and in Hollywood, as Pat Buttram puts it, a friend in need is a pain in the neck. So she died, in her own home, in her home town, and she might as well have been a million miles away for all the neighborliness it got her.

And to this day, of course, they talk about the barbiturates and all the problems there were while working with her. And, of course, everybody who tells you these things is an angel. This is a town for winners. The survivors get an excellent press.

Will Goldwater Seek Senate Job?

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Barry M. Goldwater is leaving national politics to run for the U. S. Senate again in 1968, it appeared today.

The first signs of the former Republican presidential candidate's intentions came yesterday with the resignation of Goldwater's Washington contact man, Tony S. Smith.

Smith, 52, said the parting was "completely amicable" and stemmed from Goldwater's decision to devote the major part of his time and political efforts in the future to Arizona.

Goldwater, who left his Senate seat to run for the presidency in 1964, has made it clear he wants to run in 1968 for seat now held by 89-year-old Sen. Carl T. Hayden, D-Ariz.

Senators Get Knowles; Yanks Still Chase Wills

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Relief pitcher Darold Knowles, who unwittingly helped trigger the trade of the year — decade? Century? — when he changed uniforms the last time, may be at it again.

Knowles was traded for the second time within a year last night, going from Philadelphia to Washington for center fielder Don Lock, and strangely enough that set the Baltimore Orioles on the trail of possibly satisfying their primary need — an experienced starting pitcher.

As soon as Personnel Director Harry Dalton of the Orioles heard about the trade, he tried to reach officials of both the Phillies and the Senators.

He didn't get them immediately, but he knew what he was after — pitching help in the form of Philadelphia's Ray Culp or Washington's Pete Richert — and he intended to pursue it today.

"Both teams changed their decks with the deal," Dalton explained. "We want to find out now if we have anything to talk about.

"We have a good right-handed hitter in Sam Bowens who is available. Maybe Washington or Philadelphia has a pitcher available. We want to find out."

The Orioles were in a similar situation last December — only they were seeking an accomplished outfielder then. They were having trouble securing the player they wanted, though, until Dec. 6 when they shipped Knowles to the Phillies with Jackie Brandt for relief pitcher Jack Baldschun.

The Cincinnati Reds, who hadn't been satisfied with the previous Orioles' offer, suddenly perked up. They liked Baldschun.

So three days later, hardly time enough to let him get used to his new employer, Baldschun was on his way to the Reds with Milt Pappas and Dick Simpson, and Frank Robinson was on his way to the Triple Crown.

"Knowles was the start of a three-club chain of events that brought Robinson to us," Dalton recalled. "It wasn't a master plan that was all mapped out beforehand. They were all independent, individual moves to strengthen the ball club.

"We weren't particularly interested in giving up Baldschun, but we wanted Robby. And Cincinnati wanted Baldschun. They had their eyes on him for a year or two."

Now Dalton has his eye on several pitchers.

Meanwhile, a one-time Oriole pitcher, Chuck Estrada, found his way into the New York Mets' chain when he was purchased by their Williamsport farm club of the Eastern League.

While the Knowles deal and the purchase of Estrada were the only transactions yesterday, the New York Yankees continued to pursue shortstop Maury Wills from the Los Angeles Dodgers and reportedly were offering one of two pitchers — southpaw Al Downing or right-hander Jim Bouton.

The Reds and the Minnesota Twins also were reportedly talking about pitching. The Reds supposedly offered pitchers Baldschun and Jim O'Toole for right-hander Jim Grant, but were turned down.

In another development, the player represenatives talked with club owners about raising the minimum major league salary level above the $7,000 mark. The players reportedly want to hit the $10,000 level.

Further meetings on the subject were expected to be held at a later date.

Quite A Thanksgiving Dinner For A Big Family Of Coaches

FAMILY CHAMP—The three sons in the Read family of Santa Rosa are all football coaches, so you can imagine what the topic of conversation was last week when the clan gathered over the Thanksgiving turkey.

Son Dick Read got to sit at the head of the table and received second helpings of everything because the College of Marin Tars he coaches posted a 5-4 record, best in the family.

And Brother Len? Well, all he got was the part of the turkey that went over the fence last because the Santa Rosa Junior College Bearcubs he helped coach finished with a 1-8 record. The only reason Len was even invited to the family reunion was because the Bearcubs upset brother Dick's Tars in the season finale.

DRAKE HIGH'S co-championship football team wrote a letter to me last week saying it felt slighted in the All-Marin Athletic League squad selected by the coaches.

"The only explanation for this injustice," wrote the players, "is that the other coaches are sick of seeing Drake continually beating them."

The incensed Pirates concluded: "Why don't the unbiased sports writers chose an all-league team that would be meaningful? It not, let's change the summer North-South classic to Drake versus the 'all-league' team."

TAM HIGH'S football players gifted head coach Willie Hector with a hunting jacket and a couple of boxes of shotgun ammo and assistant coach Norm Cady with a golf bag at their team banquet last week. It looks like Tam may come up with pheasants and birdies next season.

OAKLAND'S BRAND new coliseum complex is really showing off its versatility this week. Monday night it was the Bobo Olson-Don Fullmer card, Tuesday night the Warriors-Chicago Bulls pro basketball, last night the Seals for ice hockey, and Saturday, in the outdoor arena, the Raiders entertain Joe Namath and the New York Jets.

SUDDEN THOUGHT: The team that gets Dodger ace Maury Wills in the trade market will be getting a real steal.

49ers In Coastal Division

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — A long range look at 1967 in the National Football League presents a strong possibility of a Cleveland-Dallas game for the Eastern Conference title and a Green Bay-San Francisco tilt for the Western Conference crown.

The two winners would meet for the NFL title with the survivor meeting the winner of the American Football League championship.

The NFL owners realigned the conferences yesterday when they placed the new New Orleans franchise in the East and the Atlanta Falcons in the West. Each eight-club conference was split into two four-club divisions.

After much deliberation the owners came up with a grouping of Cleveland, Pittsburgh, New York and St. Louis in the Federal Division of the East. The Capitol Division of the East will include Dallas, Philadelphia, Washington and New Orleans.

In 1968 New York will shift to the Capitol and New Orleans to the Federal in a compromise move designed to give all eight of the Eastern teams a chance to play the Giants home and home in one of the two years.

The Green Bay Packers will be joined by the Chicago Bears, Minnesota Vikings and Detroit Lions in the Central Division of the Western Conference. San Francisco, Los Angeles, Baltimore and Atlanta will comprise the Coastal Division of the West.

The Western Conference will remain intact in 1967 and 1968 in contrast to the 1968 shift of New York and New Orleans from one division to the other in the East.

No decision has been made on the 1969 alignment. The NFL and AFL are due to merge into one league in 1970.

On the basis of current strength, Cleveland would seem to have an edge in the Federal with close competition from St. Louis. Dallas probably would win the Capitol. Green Bay appears to outclass the Central and San Francisco might edge out Baltimore and Los Angeles in the Coastal.

It took the NFL owners two days to complete their realignment. Then they spent several hours picking the division names and deciding what they would do in case of a tie.

If two teams tie for a division title there will be no playoff The winner will be determined by the point differential between the two clubs in their two home-and-home games. If the points are even, the team that has not been involved in a title game most recently would be the winner. If neither had been involved recently, they would flip a coin. In the event of a three-way tie a similar procedure would be followed if the round robin standings of the clubs involved did not indicate a clear cut winner.

While the NFL owners worked on their own problems, the AFL owners met separately and discussed the merger terms that were agreed upon last June.

It is expected that the joint committee recommendations on the date, site and financial arrangements for the Super Bowl game, the mechanics of the common draft and rule changes will be made to the leagues separately today. If the leagues accept the recommendations, there will be immediate announcements. If there is a hitch, they will go back to committee sessions.

Marin Tars Open Basketball Slate

Coach Cal Riemcke's Tars kick off their 1966-67 season in whirlwind fashion this week, getting not only their feet wet but their whole selves in three straight games.

They'll start at San Mateo tonight at 8 o'clock, follow with a game at College of Marin against Diablo Valley tomorrow night at 8 and trek to Los Altos for a game against Foothill Saturday night.

The Tars have no fond memories of that threesome. They kicked off the season in the same fashion last year and were promptly tagged with three losses in a start about as fast as a slow rocking horse.

They lost to San Mateo, 74-76, to Diablo, 72-88, and to Foothill, 64-69. After losing their next game, the Tars went on to 22-7 season record and the Golden Valley Conference title.

What will happen this time around is anybody's guess. Riemcke has a completely different kind of team.

"Last year we were slow and plodding and big on the boards," he said. "This year, we're a fast - break, full - court press team."

The smallish Tars are still looking for some additional help on the boards. Brad Luz, the 6-9 transfer, will play some along with Craig Kilby, 6-4 veteran who saw some action last year.

"We'll play both of them," Riemcke said. "We plan to use about eight or nine players heavily for the first few games and see what happens. Luz is coming along nicely but he's still got a lot to learn."

Luz will be right at home among the friendly giants against San Mateo tonight. They have a 6-7 center in Chris Dempsey, a returnee from last year's team that finished second to San Francisco City College in its conference and wound up with a 22-6 season record.

"They've got Owney Williams, a starter, back," Riemcke said. "He's a 6-3 guard, real smooth, and all-conference. He's a fine shooter."

Diablo Valley has three veterans back from last year in Bob Johnson and Steve Eames, a pair of 6-5 forwards, and 6-0 guard Dale Speyer.

The Tars, meanwhile, have come along.

"I'm real pleased with the way we've developed," Riemcke said. "There's been quite a bit of improvement."

Tom Stetson, touted as an outstanding and vital defensive player by Riemcke, has missed practice sessions with a case of the flu this week. His status is doubtful, but if he's healthy, he'll play.

Bill Pandiani, the playmaker and defensive standout, will start at guard and Bob Phillips and Russ Smith will also see some action there. Stetson, if he's able, will go at forward along with Terry Overlid or Russ Williams and Phil Abbott.

Seals Lose, Try Again Tomorrow

OAKLAND (AP) — The California Seals, beaten decisively by the top team in the Western Hockey League, now can try their luck with the second-place Vancouver team, tomorrow and Saturday.

The Seals were trounced 6-3 last night by the flashy Portland Buckaroos, who scored three goals in the second period.

Portland took the lead, 2-1, in the first period and had moved out to 5-2 by the end of the second.

Silver Not Wins At Bay Meadows

SAN MATEO (AP) — The favored Silver Not took command at the start of the stretch yesterday and romped to an seven-length victory in the $3,500 Murietta Stud Farm Purse over six muddy furlongs at Bay Meadows.

Silver Not was timed in 1:10 4-5 and paid $6.40, $3.60 and $3.20.

UPI ALL-AMERICAN TEAM

Irish Dominate It

NEW YORK (UPI) —Notre Dame players won the most berths and a Michigan State star the most votes on the 1966 United Press International All-America football team.

The Irish, No. 1 team in the nation, placed four players on the 22-man squad while defensive end Bubba Smith came within seven votes of being a unanimous choice, the strongest individual showing in UPI All-Americas since the World War II days of Army's Doc Blanchard and Glenn Davis.

In the balloting of 267 football writers and broadcasters, Smith, who led Michigan State to its second straight Big Ten championship, received 260 votes, just seven short of perfection.

Guard Tom Regner, the leading vote getter on the offensive team, and halfback Nick Eddy on offense and tackle Pete Duranko and linebacker Jim Lynch on defense were the Notre Dame stars honored.

In addition to Smith, Michigan State, last year's national champions, also placed end Gene Washington on the offensive team and linebacker George Webster on the defensive squad, giving the Spartans three berths.

Three colleges—Arkansas, Nebraska and Southern California —placed two players each on the only team selected by the direct vote of the nation's sports writers and broadcasters.

Here are the players they chose as the best in the land:

Offense

Ends—Washington and Jack Clancy, Michigan.

Guards—Regner and Laverne Allers, Nebraska.

Center—Jim Breland, Georgia Tech.

Defense

Ends—Smith and Tom Greenlee, Washington.

Tackles—Duranko and Lloyd Phillips, Arkansas.

Middle Guard—Wayne Meylan, Nebraska.

Linebackers—Lynch and Paul Naumoff, Tennessee.

49ers Face Awesome Defense On Sunday

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — Those guys who say statistics don't prove much have not taken a look at the figures for league-leading Green Bay.

The San Francisco 49ers invade the Packers Sunday at Milwaukee and latest figures show that Green Bay Packers permitted only 13 touchdowns against them in 11 games, eight running and five passing.

San Francisco scored three times in upsetting Green Bay in a Kezar thriller earlier this year and only three other clubs have been able to get two touchdowns against the mighty defending NFL champions.

San Francisco middle linebacker Ed Beard has sat out drills this week and is expected to be set for only limited action at Milwaukee. Mike Dowdle will probably start.

Coach Jack Christiansen said "the game is important to us because if we win it, and the remaining two, we're a cinch for second place (and the Miami Runner-Up Bowl). We can do it all by ourselves and need no help from anybody. Of course, we still have an outside chance for the title, if Green Bay should lose all three.

Tam Grapplers Fall To Sonoma

The loss was the Indians' second against one win.

Tam was hanging on to a 16-11 lead after seven matches when the brick roof fell in the form of three straight Sonoma wins via the pin route.

Mike Fowler, at 175 pounds, got the Indians back to within 21-26 with a fall but Sonoma countered with two more falls and it was all over.

Ara Defends His Irish Tie Tactics

DETROIT (AP) — Notre Dame Coach Ara Parseghian said his team was trying for the national championship and points to the latest Associated Press poll as proof that he used the right strategy in the final minutes of the Michigan State game.

Notre Dame was ranked No. 1 nationally and MSU No. 2 going into the game Nov. 19. With the score tied 10-10 Notre Dame ran out the clock rather than go for the long pass.

"Notre Dame plays in no conference," Parseghian told a football dinner audience here last night. "We play no post-season games. The national polls mean everything to us, and those who vote in the polls put a premium on being undefeated.

"Another big factor is that for MSU it was all over with that game. At the end of that game, they hang up the pads. There is no more," Parseghian said.

"But we had an overtime. We could control our own destiny. For us, there is another game, Southern California. So we didn't try for the bomb.

Notre Dame smashed Southern Cal in the final game and increased its poll margin over MSU. (UPI also picked Notre Dame No. 1.)

"Actually," the Notre Dame coach joked, "It was an easy decision to make. When I first became coach at Notre Dame I got a telegram from an alumni group telling me, "We're with you, win or tie.' "

"But," Parseghian concluded, "judging from the mail I got after the MSU tie, I guess that word 'tie' can be dropped."

Aztecs Win No. 1 Grid Spot

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

San Diego State, with a perfect record in 10 games, is the 1966 small-college football champion. The Aztecs, unranked a year ago when they had an 8-2 record, were overwhelming choices in this season's final Associated Press poll today.

San Diego State received 14 first-place votes from among the 16 selectors on the national panel of sports writers and broadcasters. Tennessee State, the runner-up in the balloting, had the other two votes for the top position.

The voters who placed Tennessee State in the No. 1 spot made San Diego State No. 2. Thus, the Aztecs collected 158 points. Tennessee State accumulated 126 on the basis of 10 for a first place vote, 9 for second etc.

The two top teams were the only ones among the first ten to play last week. The others had previously completed their regular campaigns. The Aztecs downed Los Angeles State 39-12 while Tennessee State crushed Kentucky State 83-0.

Montana State finished in third place. Northwestern State of Louisiana is fourth followed by Parsons, Arkansas State, Muskingum, North Dakota, North Dakota State, Waynesburg and Weber State, the latter two teams in a 10th place tie.

Waynesburg's climb into the rankings was the only change from last week. The Yellow Jackets completed their regular season unbeaten and untied in nine games.

San Diego State was ranked fifth in the 1964 small-college poll which was topped by Wittenberg. Last year's titleholder was North Dakota State.

Terra Linda Cagers Lose

Terra Linda's freshman and junior varsity basketball teams both fell to its Sonoma High counterparts Tuesday afternoon in practice action at Sonoma, 42-31 and 30-23 respectively. Byron Sakanri led the jayvees with 10 points, while Bruce Dokken pumped in 12 to top the Trojan babes' scoring.

In another jayvee clash Tuesday, versatile Tommy Davis, San Rafael Military Academy's star quarterback, tallied 25 points to pace the Cadets to a 59-46 triumph over Redwood's J.V. squad despite Tom Nicholson's sparkling 26-point performance, on the winners' court.

San Rafael Car Wins Drag Honor

Ruph's Speed Shop of San Rafael had a winning entry in the HS division of Formula 2 racers at the Fremont Drag Strip races last week.

SURGERY ON THE ICE?

Although it looks like Detroit Red Wings hockey player Paul Henderson is preparing for surgery, it's not that serious. But it probably is a medical first. Henderson is suffering from tracheitis (irritation of the windpipe) and the surgical mask warms the air he breathes. Without the mask, the cold air would make him cough violently. (UPI Telephoto)

Kickoff For Basketball

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The 1966-67 college basketball season fires up tonight and right away the talk is about a UCLA gent who can look hardly anybody straight in the eye.

Too tall.

His name is Lew Alcindor and he measures 7-foot-1 counting his callouses. It figures if he tries a jump shot he's liable to overshoot the basket assembly.

So valuable is this fellow that the Bruins have been voted the favorite in the nation as well as the Pacific-8.

Alcindor will indeed be a man to look up to when he and his UCLA partners mix with Southern California Saturday in a non-conference match.

Along the West Coast in openers tonight Stanford plays at the University of San Francisco; Sacramento State at St. Mary's, Cal Poly of San Luis Obispo at UC Santa Barbara; University of the Pacific at Hayward; Pepperdine at Utah; Whittier at Arizona State, and California's alumni versus the varsity.

Tomorrow the lineup finds Oregon at Nebraska, Oregon State at Hawaii, Iowa at Washington, Oklahoma at Seattle, and Gonzaga at Washington State. There'll be nearly a full house on the boards Saturday night.

Aside from UCLA's unanimous choice to top the Pacific-8, defending champ UOP is top selection to take the West Coast Athletic Conference.

Rated to have the best chance to come in behind UCLA are Washington State and Southern California.

AND HE'S ONLY A JUNIOR

Bob Bunnell Already An Ace Runner

By GARY TISCHLER

Bob Bunnell doesn't look daffy.

The Terra Linda High School junior looks just like most boys his age who like girls. But, you see, Bob, at certain times of the year gets up every morning "about six or 6:30" and runs five miles. And try keeping down the Breakfast of Champions after that little jog.

Not only that, but the rest of the year he runs ten miles every evening. And he says he could probably do better in long distances. Like 25 miles maybe? Or maybe from here to L.A. and back? That's right. Run. Not walk or crawl. Not a nice comfy car ride. Not even a bike or a tricycle. But run. As in double-time.

BOB BUNNELL
He's a champ

THE BEST

Actually, Bob isn't daffy. He's just the best long-distance runner in the Marin Athletic League. After this year, he could be the best the league's ever had.

The little runs in the morning and the little runs in the evening have been part of a high school success story that have helped Bob become the Marin Athletic two-mile champ in track and the cross-country champ this year.

For the record, Bob won the two-mile event in the MCAL meet last year. He finished second in the MCAL cross country meet that year after an undefeated dual meet season. This year, he won the title, again went undefeated in duals. He also took the division title in a meet against some of the top runners in this area, including Santa Rosa, Vallejo and Napa. But he finished eighth in the sectional meet.

NOT HAPPY

He wasn't too happy with that performance but offered no excuses, like butterflies or sore toes that are commonly heard.

"I had a bad start," he said matter of factly. "I was too slow and got lost in the pack. There were a lot of good runners there. The course had nothing to do with it."

Bob is still a cross-country champ. He probably has never heard the roar of a gleeful crowd or been swamped by pompon girls after winning a meet.

In a sport that is run almost in a whisper alongside the noise of football, Bob is a champ. When you think of cross country, you think of rolling hills and prep schools, lacrosse and rugby and the sound of feet trodding on gold, wet leaves. And the pants and hard breathing. It is a silent sport without halos of publicity. But it's the sport Bob likes.

NO SPECTATOR SPORT

"I realize it's not much of a spectator sport," he said. "I mean, there's only the start and the finish."

"I like running cross-country," he said. "I like the hills, and the change of pace. It's not the same straight run all the way. You have to work up-hill. You can take it easy downhill."

What's it take to be good at it?

"Training," he said. "Dedication. You have to work at it."

That. And endurance. And a good, strong stomach. And runs at 6 a.m. and 10-milers in the evenings.

"Yes, I wouldn't mind running in the Olympics," he said. "But that will take work. I'd have to try the really long distances. Like 10,000 meters."

AFTER RECORD

Bunnell, who depends more on endurance than speed, would like to break the Marin Athletic League two-mile record held by Joe Davy of Terra Linda at 9:50. He has already hit 9:55 with more than a year to go. He'd like to break 9:20.

Bunnell comes to Terra Linda by way of Kansas, Michigan and Rhode Island. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bunnell of 35 Terra Linda Drive.

He's a junior. And track season still to go this year. And another year after that. The people who are wards of the record books are sharpening their pencils.

More Hunters After Chukars; Salmon Fishing Fair To Good

STEVENS

"How come you never write about chukar hunting? Two of my friends hunted on a Naval reservation and claimed to have one of the best shoots ever." That's how I was chided recently. Before I could think up a good answer, by critic added, "Where is the place they hunted? Are my chances good of getting some?"

I plead guilty to overlooking news of chukar shooting. Mainly, I guess, because I received no reports on same. As to my critic's question—his two friends must have hunted on the China Lake Naval Ordnance Test Station in Inyo County, but the 250 square miles opened to public shooting is no longer open. He can try for chuckars until Jan. 2, but not on the Naval Test Station. The area was opened for three weekends, the last of which ended on Nov. 13.

I NOTE FROM my reports a very interesting score made by hunters in the above area. Interesting because in 1964 when two weekends were open to the public, only 313 hunters tried their luck, and only 43 chukars were killed. The past weekend shoots show that 1,228 nimrods shot the area and 1,297 chukars were killed. Also there were 428 quail (mountain quail) and 410 valley quail, plus 197 cottontail rabbits killed. There will probably be a slew of hunters working the China Lake area in 1967. (The chukar season extends through Jan. 2, 1967.)

SPEAKING OF open seasons on upland game, six species will remain open until Jan. 2, 1967. They are: Pheasant (in Imperial and Riverside only, local season ends Dec. 4, 1966), quail, chukar, tree squirrel and brush, cottontail, pigmy, and varying hare. Also you may hunt bruin until Jan. 2.

So much for nimrods, now for a quick look-see at fishing. Reports of steelhead fishing are encouraging from the upper Sacramento River from Gridley to Red Bluff. Best baits appear to be roeberries, night crawlers and single eggs. Running to good size, several going over seven pounds. Coast streams just starting to clear—if more rain, practically all tide-run streams will be N.G. for steelies. There will have to be at least three or four days of clear, dry weather to bring the coastal waters to fishable condition.

VERY FEW REPORTS of salmon action in the coastal streams, except a few fair to good reports of silvers being landed in the Russian, the Navarro and the Ten Mile over the last weekend.

Striper success seems to be a matter of geopraphy. The back country area of the Delta waters reported some good results, good in the Red Rock-Paradise Cove-Point Richmond regions, also quite good off China Camp, the upper San Pablo Bay, the Suisun Bay-Honker Bay areas. Mostly live bait in the lower reaches; sardines, bullheads and grass shrimp above Point Richmond to the waters off Pittsburg.

Defensive Star In 72-41 Game?

NEW YORK (AP) — When the final score is 72-41, a defensive player really has to do something big to get his name in the paper. Washington's Brig Owens found the way.

While the New York Giants were going down before a record-breaking score, Owens was dashing around picking up headlines.

The Skins' safety man scored two touchdowns and set up two others while intercepting three passes. He also recovered a fumble. That feat made Owens The Associated Press' defensive Player of the Week in the National Football League.

Hunting Should Improve

By JERRY HARRELL

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Shooting on California's public waterfowl management areas is good and should be getting better.

State fish and game officials report that some two million ducks finally moved south from the Tule Lake area during the past two weeks, headed for the Sacramento Valley.

Some of the migrants' main stops along the way south will be the state and federal areas in the valley.

The 15 waterfowl management areas of the state and federal governments, operated by the State Fish and Game Department, are a good bet for the "unattached" hunter who doesn't belong to a duck club or have a favorite shooting area staked out elsewhere.

About 70,000 hunters use the areas each year, and they bag about 125,000 birds or an average of close to two per hunter.

The hottest spot this year among the regular, developed areas has been the Sacramento National Wildlife Refuge, near Willows. Some 4,500 hunters have bagged more than 15,000 birds for an average of 2.7 birds per hunter.

Close behind is Grizzly Island, near Fairfield, with an average of 2.5 birds per hunter based on a bag of 26,500 birds by 9,900 hunters.

But a new area that's still being developed and only has about 1,000 acres open to hunting has provided the hottest shooting of all. That's the Kern National Wildlife Refuge, north of Bakersfield, operated by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Thus far this season, 2,605 hunters have knocked down 12,083 birds for an average of 4.6 birds per hunter. The area is in its second season of hunting and is in the early stages of development.

The duck bag has dropped during the past weekends, with an influx of pheasant hunters into the Saramento Valley areas, but is expected to pick up next week with new birds arriving and the pheasant season winding up this Sunday.

One of the most highly developed waterfowl management areas is Gray Lodge, a state area near Gridley in Butte County. Its 6,800 acres — 4,400 open to hunting—comprise what is regarded by many as a model management area.

The population of ducks, geese and other waterbirds usually reaches one million and often goes as high as 1½ million near the end of the season.

There's much more to the area, and others like it, than hunting. Crops are raised at Gray Lodge to cut down raids by marauding ducks on neighboring farms.

"Today, suitable living and feeding quarters for marshland wildlife are extremely limited," says Gray Lodge Manager John B. Cowan. "State and federal marshlands, such as Gray Lodge, are a mainstay of existence for many of the state's wildlife species."

Some Squeakers In Rec Basketball

There were some squeakers for a change in the San Rafael Recreation Department Adult Basketball leagues.

The squeakiest of three "C" League games Tuesday night was Green Mill's 33-32 win over J. Barth. Tom Corbett scored 12 points for Green Mill but Barth's Bob McGrath took high scoring honors with 15 points.

Dan Coleman Associates got by Montgomery Ward, 46-38 as Jerry Hansen hit for 16 points. Rich Kraiewski scored 15 points for Wards.

The easiest win of the night was posted by Marin Kelly, which downed San Rafael Post Office, 57-45 behind James Cook's 25 points. Bill Barry had 18 points for the postmen.

Righthander Bob Shaw of the New York Mets was charged with five balks May 4, 1963, while with the Milwaukee Braves.

Bo Hagan Is Named Grid Coach At Rice

Hagan, 41, was elevated yesterday from his post as Rice backfield coach to replace Jess Neely, the dean of the nation's coaches, who is retiring at the age of 69. Neely will continue as athletic director until next Sept. 1, at which time Hagan also will assume those duties.

Hagan displayed a combination of his ability to make decisions and his ambition to become a head coach when he quit his backfield post at SMU in 1955 to join Neely.

"The situation was such at SMU that no assistant coach had a chance to succeed Woody Woodard (as head coach) so I decided to go elsewhere," Hagan said.

He also decided to accept an offer to coach the freshman at Georgia Tech about Sept. 1, 1951, although he had been hired as head coach at O'Keefe High School in Atlanta and had practiced his high school team three weeks.

Idaho's Ray McDonald: 242 Pounds Of Talent

Today, I'm going to bring you a 20th Century miracle—a true story out of Moscow.

Moscow is normally the place we think of in the Orwellian sense where the Ministry of Truth is in charge of lies, war is the chief concern of the Ministry of Peace, the Ministry of Defense coordinates all attacks, the Ministry of Love is the most warlike building in town and the slums are called "The Mansions."

But this dispatch from Moscow does not have to go in the Ipcress File or through a lie detector or mean the exact opposite from what it says. I tell you the best football player in the country today comes from Moscow, you can take it to the bank and get a loan on it.

I AM REFERRING, of course, to Moscow, Ida., and the athlete in question is no Russian high-jumper but a giant Texas Negro who would average 10 yards a carry if the other 10 guys on the team all had neurasthenia.

Forget about that all-myopia All-American team you might have seen on the Ed Sullivan show or in the Police Gazette—22 tributes to a mimeographing machine and a sports publicity director's unlimited expense account for phone calls. Raymond Douglas McDonald will make the All-American team picked in a hotel room by two dozen pro football loners who have $7 to $10 million riding on the rightness of their selections, and who are not guided by a wire service editor anxious to spread the accolade geographically so as to keep clients happy.

RAY McDONALD CAN run better than Jim Taylor, block better than Jim Brown, and tackle better than half the linebackers in The Big 10. Large statement? Well, he's a large man—242 pounds on the last scale he stepped on where his fortune card read, "You will meet a tall, rich stranger and achieve many goals in life."

Ray McDonald is a fullback at the University of Idaho where he carried the ball 603 times in his career for 2,916 yards. He picked up real estate faster than—and in the same way as—Hitler in 1940. He frequently carried more players on him than the team bus.

LEVEL OF COMPETITION? Well, Oregon State's Pete Pifer will make most All-American teams and ALL All-Coast teams. Old McDonald out-rushed him, 148 yards to 95, in their meeting. If McDonald had the Oregon State line in front of HIM, the other team might have sent out for a rope. He gained 135 yards against the U. of Washington which compares unfavorably with the total run up by the WHOLE UCLA team. In fact, it compared unfavorably with what the Russian Marines would roll up on Jim Owens' bunch. The Purple Gang was black-and-blue when McDonald got through with them.

AS IF HIS accomplishments in shoulder pads weren't enough, Ray McDonald is probably the only fullback in the game who can play the Moonlight Sonata. Most fullbacks couldn't even recognize it—and wouldn't know Beethoven from Bach without a number on their backs.

Ray McDonald migrated North from McKinney, Tex., to Moscow, for an old familiar reason. The names of the universities down there are lofty-sounding, but their principles have a tough time living up to it. In other words, if you're non-white, you can play the piano, but not necessarily football.

OF COURSE, if you can do the things Ray McDonald can do between the chalked lines, a skill at the keyboard is like good looks on a young woman you're marooned with on a desert island. It's nice. But it's not necessary.

To be sure, Ray has to turn his banana-sized fingers sideways to hit some notes, but he never gives critics a chance to say "Ray McDonald played 'Liebestraum' last night as if it was Notre Dame," or "Ray McDonald, who looks big enough to move a piano, should have."

In fact, he may not only be the first pro player to know Carnegie Hall from Carnegie Tech, but also to have his bonus delivered not by Brink's but by Steinway.

Tomales High Defeated In Cage Opener

Tomales High's basketball team made its first outing against a seasonal team from from St. Vincent's of Petaluma and lost a hard-fought 63-72 decision.

Tomales led at the half after overcoming a 20-14 first quarter deficit by pouring in 21 points for a 35-33 edge. But St. Vincent's dumped in 19 points in the third and fourth quarters while holding Tomales to 10 and 17 for the victory.

Junior Gary Dellepere, who was a one-man gang for the Tomales football team, turned out to be a giant on the court too, with a 21-point performance on eight field goals and five free throws. Larry Gondola chipped in with 19 points and J. C. Lewis had 13 for Tomales.

The St. Vincent's jayvees downed Tomales' junior varsity, 61-43. Ron Petroni was high for Tomales with 13 points.

Tomales scoring — Larry Gondola, 7-5-19; Gary Dellepere 8-5-21; J. C. Lewis, 5-3-13; Herb Cabrol, 1-1-3; Gary Cheetah, 1-1-3; Lyle Carpenter, 1-2-4; Totals: 23-17-63.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

New Mill Valley Shop Caters To Marin Ski And Slope Lovers

An opening is scheduled for today for the Odlum Ski Center at 76 Throckmorton Avenue, Mill Valley—a store handling everything for the ski enthusiast—skis (seals and rentals), gear and clothes.

This is a partnership of Stein Odlum, a stockbroker with Gardner and Co., and young Robert Pyle, a former student at University of California and University of San Diego. Both live in Mill Valley.

Odlum has been active in ski circles, but will be a more or less inactive partner in this business. Pyle will manage the store. He once managed a similar business in Aspen, Colo. and has done some participation in the winter sport. Hours will be from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Mondays through Fridays and to 6 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays.

During the summer when the ski business is slack, the store will feature equipment for "back packers" and tennis and golf equipment.

A NEW FLEA MARKET in San Rafael is scheduled to have its opening days on Dec. 10 and 11 and will be located indoors at 70-L and 70-M Woodland Avenue. Hours will be from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Thereafter the San Rafael Flea Mart, as it is to be called, will keep open Wednesdays through Sundays—same hours. Rose and George Foster of 197 Knight Drive, San Rafael and three other couples from Marin and the East Bay are operating it and will incorporate.

They have an area of 6,400 square feet divided into 51 exhibit spaces—and according to Mrs. Foster, about 200 vendors have already announced a desire to participate. Apparently there will be some selectivity in choosing from them. Exhibits will include antiques, candies, foodstuffs, furniture, clothing and other articles — all under roof, so there will be no rainy weather problems.

LAST FRIDAY NIGHT'S black-out in downtown San Rafael must have nipped more than one Christmas sale in the bud. But it didn't stop proceedings at James Callan and Sons, Inc. at Fourth and B Streets, where there was one street light still in action. Under this beam an interrupted transaction was closed al fresco.

NEW MANAGER at the Novato office of Central Valley Bank is Ralph E. Peters, who has been in the bank's credit administration department in San Mateo and the East Bay. A native of Canada, Peters replaces George Tocalino, who recently joined the Bank of Marin office in Novato.

THERE HAS BEEN a 4 per cent increase in the number of Marin telephones in service in the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. system since the first of the year. This does not include the Novato exchange, which is served by Western California Telephone Co.

Total number of telephones Oct. 31 was 106,175—a gain of 4,250 since Jan. 1. Belvedere showed the highest percentage increase of 7.8, adding 373 phones to make 6,430. Ignacio at 7 per cent gained 584 for a new total of 8,791. San Rafael exchanges totaling 59,399 gained only 3.6 per cent—but that was better than the Stinson Beach and Bolinas area with a gain of less than 1 per cent. Others: Inverness, 491 telephones — a 3.2 gain; Nicasio, 145—3.4 per cent; Point Reyes Station, 628—up 6 per cent; Corte Madera, 8,104—5.2 per cent; Mill Valley, 15,710—4 per cent; Sausalito, 6,430—5.8 per cent.

SPACECRAFT FLIGHT DIRECTOR

Apollo astronauts will get their bearings in space from this "attitude indicator," a cockpit instrument shown undergoing final assembly at Honeywell's aeronautical division. The electronic ball displays variances in each of three axes —roll, pitch and yaw. The unit is being produced for North American Aviation, principal contractor for the three-man spacecraft.

Economic Critics Rap LBJ's Fiscal Actions

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP)—For many months, President Johnson took no fiscal action to correct economic imbalance despite urgings from many quarters.

Now that he is acting, some of the same people who criticized him then are criticizing him now.

In the past couple of months, the inflationary fires have cooled some. Certain economists who favored tax increases aren't so sure anymore. And the political face of the nation has changed.

Johnson's first move was to suspend the 7 per cent investment tax credit that some economists said was making it too easy for business to continue spending. Such spending, they said, was inflationary.

This week, Johnson announced plans to cancel or delay $5.3 billion in federal programs for the present fiscal year, the purpose being to relieve inflationary pressure placed on the economy by heavy federal spending.

Johnson also moved in another direction. Because high interest rates and a money shortage were depressing the housing market, the President freed $250 million in funds to help finance mortgages of 15,000 new homes.

Johnson says now he will decide by the end of the year whether to ask for an income tax increase.

Rallies and demonstrations being in vogue this year, Wall Street is talking now about having one of its own — a yearend rally. It may or may not come, for the market is not a faithful friend. However, stock prices usually rise in December.

Expectations of the yearend rally begin invariably soon after the optimists give up waiting for the late summer rally. It is a yearly event that ties in curiously with childhood expectations of gifts at Christmas.

There is to it, however, a sad aspect. Many of the bargains are nothing but somebody else's losses. Yearend selling is often for tax purposes — to establish losses that can be written off tax payments.

Forced to sell because their stocks have taken big losses during the year, the losers can depress prices even more. At this point the smart trader steps in to snap up bargains.

Several months ago one one of the nation's largest builders forecast a drop in housing starts to an annual rate of 800,000 by early 1967. Since housing already was depressed at more than a million starts, the figure was difficult to believe. In October, however, the rate dropped to 848,000 — a 20-year low.

Stock Market Lower

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market registered its fourth straight decline today, closing lower after a rally came to nought.

Trading was the most active of the week.

Volume for the day was estimated at 8.2 million shares compared with 7.24 million yesterday.

Gainers outnumbered losers among leading issues but the margin was not very wide. Some advances ran to several points among the more volatile issues. The downside spread ran to 2 or 3 points generally.

It was a trading, speculative market but technical strength put the list safely into plus territory after three straight days of decline.

Sprague Electric was up about 4½. Walter Kidde preferred rose 6 and Walter Kidde 2. Motorola spurted about 4. Corning Glass, Fairchild Camera and Chicago Great Western about 3 apiece.

Ahead about 2 points were Walt Disney, Admiral, Johnson & Johnson, Xerox and Douglas Aircraft.

Up a point or so were Fairchild Hiller, Texas Gulf Sulphur, American Can, General Dynamics, U.S. Smelting and High Voltage Engineering.

Down a point or so were Anaconda, Texaco, Pennsylvania Railroad, Jones & Laughlin and Burroughs.

Hawaiian Telephone rose 3¾ to 39½ on 12,500 shares following a trading halt on news that company and General Telephone have agreed on merger terms. General Telephone gained a fraction.

Santa Needs An Assist; Mail Your Package Now

Mailing early and spreading out the flow throughout the pre-Christmas season is the key to better mail service.

Last year, public cooperation was "tremendous," according to local postmasters. Virtually every piece of holiday mail was delivered before Christmas Day. With increased volume of mail this year, the postmasters are again asking for that fine cooperative spirit.

There are only about 20 more mailing days before Christmas. You can help yourselves and the postal service by following these tips offered by San Rafael Postmaster Warren H. Williams:

Use Zip codes on all mail. If you need Zip codes, call or go to the Post Office and look them up in the Zip Code Directory.

Prepare your gift list and mail right away. Be sure you have enough boxes, tape, string and wrapping paper on hand.

Wrap your packages well. Include sufficient padding. Remember that your parcel may be shipped in a mail truck with a set of the encyclopedia riding on top.

Include a card or piece of paper inside the package with your name and address and the destination address in case the wrapping should unravel. That way, your gift will not wind up in the dead parcel office. Also, insert a list of the package's contents.

Print addresses clearly so that postal workers will not have to squint or decode. Use first-class postage on greeting cards. This assures their being forwarded if the recipient has moved. Cards that are undeliverable will be returned if you include a return address on the envelope.

A Bit About Holly

Holly is native to most countries, but probably the most common variety in Marin is English Holly. All in all, it grows and thrives quite well here, except for occasional attacks of smut.

Connected by belief and legend with a wide variety of occasions around the world, this tree is best known to us as the producer of sharp-pointed, shiny green leaves and red berries. But the Indians to the south got "high" on the strong caffein content of tea brewed from the leaves before they went to war. And in England in olden times, people believed that a staff of holly protected one from witches, mad dogs and wild beasts. The Romans thought holly warded off evil spirits.

With Christmas approaching, we will be seeing more and more holly. As the seasonal accompaniment to the Christmas tree, it is lovely, and even more interesting when we realize its use as a decoration and amulet predates the birth of Christ.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Legislature Need To Take Longer Look At Road Deaths

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) —There appears to be no sound or compelling reason why 3,975 persons died in traffic accidents on California highways during the first ten months of 1966, but this is the cumulative total as announced by the California Highway Patrol.

This marked an increase of some 10 per cent over the deaths recorded in 1965, when 3,757 persons died on the state's roads and highways.

In October alone of this year, 445 persons were killed, against 417 in the same month last year, and in the areas supervised by the CHP, the death increase amounted to 16.5 per cent over last year.

STATISTICS ON traffic fatalities have become so commonplace that they are not given much attention these days. A catastrophe of the same death volume immediately would be a matter of statewide concern, yet the highway death rate increases every year, and not much is done to halt the growing percentages of fatalities each year.

For some 20 years, governors of California have called safety conferences. Supposedly the best brains in the state gather together at the Capitol, discuss the matter, and make recommendations for traffic safety. So far, their warnings and recommendations have amounted to not much more than words, although some of their work may have helped to keep the percentage increase lower than its ultimate potential.

Some of the blame for the rising death rate of course is the heavy increase in traffic in California.

YET LAWS governing the driving of automobiles in this state are remarkably loose. Drivers' licenses are available to almost anyone, except the obviously decrepit and mentally unfit. And only short terms of penalty are allocated for law violations which patently indicate a driver is not capable of using the public highways.

In fact, in comparison with the requirements for piloting an airplane, requirements for obtaining an automomile driver's license are almost negligible.

Attempts are being made to blame some of the accident rate on unsafe automobiles. Yet it can be said from experience that no automobile is safer than its driver, no matter how well put together, or how many safety devices have been incorporated thereon.

IT WOULD almost appear as though the state legislature has little or no concern over the increasing death rate, the injury rate, the broken homes resulting from fatalities, and to those not directly involved, the increasing insurance rates the careful and safe driver must pay to be protected against at least money loss from accidents caused by persons unfit to drive on the highways.

The legislature temporizes with strict requirements for driving while deaths increase, undertakers make money, hospitals use space urgently necessary for persons who are really sick, and insurance companies get rich.

It could be possible the next legislative session will take a longer look at the driver situation.

10 YEARS AGO

Neighbor Wishes For Dognaping

Editor, Independent-Journal:

For more than a year now, one dog owner on Roosevelt Avenue, in Santa Venetia, has allowed a large, German police dog to roam the street at night. This dog sets off a disturbance in the early morning hours with other dogs which are kept in their yards. I realize this sometimes keeps prowlers away. This dog drags garbage onto the street and when we get up in the morning we usually find chewed up milk cartons, old shoes, newspapers or various other items on the street or in front of our yard or in our yard if we leave a gate open. Who cleans up the mess? Not the dog and not the dog owner. Of course, sometimes I need the exercise. On a few occasions this dog threatened our guests when they attempted to leave their car. This could serve a purpose; it might discourage a salesman.

The Humane Society came out, in the daytime, and found the dog tied and accepted the dog owner's word that the dog is always tied. So I say to the dognapers welcome to Roosevelt Ave. any night and all day and I too, offer a reward, only a very small one, but I offer it to the dognapers for a service.

By the way, whose money is this $1,000 which is being offered?

Wrong Man Credited With Raising Yacht

Editor, Independent-Journal:

A correction is in order.

In your article, "Yacht Sinks; Gas Threatens Harbor," in the Friday, Nov. 25 '66 edition of your paper, you inadvertently credited me with raising the cruiser Frolic.

While I certainly appreciate free, good, publicity, I did not raise the Frolic. Don Bailey, whom you also mentioned in the article, made the lift with his barge mounted crane. My function was to put slings under the boat, pump it out when it broke surface and then to tend it until it can be dry-docked.

Thank you anyway.

Tour Reveals Our Redwoods Vanishing

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Anyone who says the redwoods in California aren't being lost may not have gone as far north as Klamath in 1966. Just south of there my April vacation "diary" notes say "heartbreak logging" while passing a three-mile stretch of stripped lands.

If "harvesting helps redwoods" how did they survive so beautifully ages before logging started? If "there are more redwoods than ever" where are the formerly plentiful jobs, redwoods and mills of Little River, Mendocino, Westport and farther south — except in historical photographs. There seem to be more redwoods than ever lying in miles of piles around lumber yards, or whizzing past on trucks.

Some companies are still eradicating future jobs. Also stripped hillsides wash away in floods which wreck present park lands and cities, costing all California residents more taxes for new roads, bridges, etc. Is this wise use of natural resources?

Many U.S. vacation areas are seeking funds for embellishing their lands to lure one of the nation's biggest businesses, tourism. Ancient redwoods and streams are a ready-made attraction. Couldn't the redwood industry take advantage and convert sections of their best forests to resorts, camps, etc., and leave less scenic parcels for logging? With more accommodations inviting the many vacationists who want to stay, and different types of businesses arriving to share tax loads, local profits and employment would increase — and would soar with a soon doubled population, surely seeking outdoor spaces less crowded than poor Yosemite Valley.

American tourists go overseas to see sights thousands of years old. Foreign visitors want to see our equally ancient naturally created wonders — which we crash down for planks. The Pyramids in Egypt could as well be cut into building blocks, but destroying antiquities does not attract needed travel dollars.

Could interested persons write the President? Could all of us, kids especially are important, help protect acres of their future great redwood trees by saving a bit and maybe giving in groups to the Sierra Club or Save-the-Redwoods League. Rescuing the Giant Trees for federal or private parks is a must—now—for coming generations.

Election Story Held Comment, Not News

Editor, Independent-Journal:

This letter is belated but the point, I believe, is important enough to be considered at any time.

On Wednesday Nov. 9, your paper ran a front page item headed "Marin Goes Along With the Winners," which continues with a one-sentence paragraph repeating the head, followed by: "In a near-record turnout the Marin voters gave majorities to every victor in the state's Republican-dominated election. . . ."

Apparently whoever wrote this item was using the idea of "voting for a winner" to unify the article, as a theme. This in itself is quite usual and legitimate, but I feel his choice was a poor one, especially for a widely read newspaper, and I wonder why the editor let it pass.

We Americans have the tendency anyway to regard elections as a sort of horse race or popularity poll or tug-of-war, where pride that "my side" or "the one I like best" or "my horse" won is a stake in the game. Elections are of a different color, since we vote for an event which will continue afterwards not for two minutes or a week, but for two or four years. I feel that such reporting only reinforces this gamesmanship attitude.

It is interesting that Marin County has been so average in relation to the rest of the state in this election. I would like to know why. I think no one would argue, however, that such analysis belongs on the editorial page or with the letters to the editor: that is, that as clear a distinction as possible should be made in a newspaper between "information" and "opinion." The readers should be warned.

In this case, I believe, the subtlety of the distinction makes such reporting especially dangerous. The bias possibly was difficult for the editor to detect because it fits so neatly into his own. In cold fact, however, is that there are no "winners in an election. An election is only a beginning, and after that, even if "my candidate" is in office, I have won nothing until some need of mine that can be satisfied through political channels is satisfied.

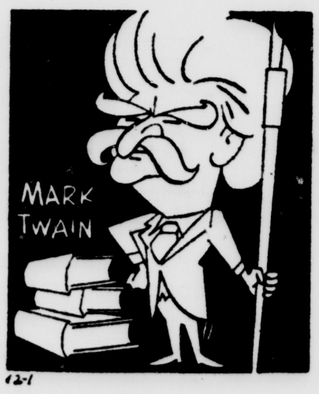
MARK TWAIN, like many other famous humorists, had moments of absolute despair and had to contend with a long series of personal misfortunes. Here are a few of the more cynical Twain pronouncements: "Truth is the most valuable thing we have. Let us economize it."



"To be good is noble, but to show others how to be good is nobler — and a good deal less trouble." . . . "If you pick up a starving dog and make him prosperous, he will not bite you. This is the principal difference between a dog and a man."

JOHN STRALEY has a neighbor whose perky teenage daughter is slowly driving him to distraction. "A TV ratings inspector called her up yesterday," reported the neighbor, "to ask her if she knew what prime time meant. She answered, 'Sure. It's any time both my parents are out.' She also exhibits a strange habit when nineteen-year-old boys appear at the back door to deliver groceries. She sends back the groceries but keeps the delivery boys."

As LBJ Struggles With Huge Budget, He's Thinking Ahead

WASHINGTON — Remember those days—they seem a long way off—when President Johnson was running around the White House, turning off the lights to save money?

You don't hear much about that any more. But things have been going up all over, living costs, wages, prices and even the cost of the war in Viet Nam.

Another four weeks and it will be bell-ringing time, Christmastime. But down on Johnson's Texas ranch, from now until Christmas, it will be hand-wringing time, usual every year about now, as Johnson sweats to cut spending.

BUT SPENDING is going up. President John F. Kennedy's last budget sent to Congress in January, 1963—for the 1964 fiscal year, beginning July 1, 1963, and ending June 30, 1964—called for spending $98.802 billion.

When Johnson took over the presidency about this time in 1963, he had to tug and tussle with the figures to ready the budget he had to submit to Congress in January, 1964, for fiscal 1965.

He really sweated over that one. He wanted to keep his budget lower than Kennedy's, which would be a kind of miracle, if he could. And, by jingo, he did. His budget, $97.9 billion, was just a little less than $1 billion below Kennedy's.

BUT EVERYTHING was inching along, living costs and all that, just a little up and up, and we were getting a little deeper into the Vietnamese war, which was not inexpensive.

Then came November and December, 1964, and Johnson went through the tug-and-tussle about his budget for Congress in early 1965 for fiscal 1966.

He bustled and battled but it turned out his budget was $99.7 billion, which was just a little below $1 billion over Kennedy's last budget, and $1.8 billion over his own budget of the previous year.

But by this time the United States was getting up to its neck in the war.

Once again came that time of the fiscal Turkish bath on the Johnson ranch—November and December, 1965—with the war getting bigger and all the expenses of the "Great Society" program, which Congress had passed earlier in the year to worry about.

SO, WHILE Johnson may have lost weight sweating about the spending, the spending itself got fatter and in January, 1966, when Johnson submitted his budget for fiscal 1967, it turned out to be $112.8 billion.

Now once more Johnson is down at the ranch, getting his budget ready for fiscal 1968. And it won't be surprising if the budget doesn't come out at something like $125 billion. There has been talk it might.

Meanwhile, the economy is in a kind of tantrum which even the experts are having a time trying to analyze.

There's inflation. American defense costs, including the war costs, are going up. But new housing starts are at their lowest point in 20 years. Automobile manufacturers have cut back production. So in some ways Americans are spending more money, and in some ways they're not.

JOHNSON HAS been given a lot of advice, much of it free, that one of the very best ways to stop inflation is to raise income taxes, which is one of the very best ways to make a lot of people unhappy.

Johnson, who is probably thinking of running for re-election in 1968, isn't enthusiastic about making people unhappy. But he has to worry about inflation and the economy first. So he is thinking it over.

Katzenbach Works For Consular Plan

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

The former attorney general has, at his own request, tackled the extremely thorny job of trying to persuade the Senate to approve the long-stalled agreement between the U.S. and Russia to set up consular offices in their countries.

A leading opponent of this treaty is FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover. The outspoken disapproval of the militant anti-Communist has been largely responsible for the Senate's failure to consider this pact, negotiated by the State Department with President Johnson's warm support.

State Department insiders say Katzenbach requested permission to lead a drive for Senate ratification of the consular agreement in order to force a showdown with Hoover over whether internal security or foreign policy should determine relations with the Soviet.

KATZENBACH, who singled out Yuri Tchernjakov, counselor at the Russian embassy, as one of the first to be informed of this, argues that now is the time to expand U. S.-Soviet cooperation, and ratification of the treaty would be a tangible and effective step in that direction.

Since taking over the No. 2 position in State, Katzenbach has consistently sided with Llewellyn Thompson, newly-appointed ambassador to Moscow and a leading exponent of developing closer ties with Russia for the purpose of mutually countering Red China.

Aides of Sen. Thomas Dodd, D-Conn., leader of the Senate foes of the pact, say Hoover is eager to appear before the Foreign Relations Committee to present a detailed account of how Soviet consulates will be used to increase espionage in the U. S.

A PARTICULAR Hoover target is Article 19 that grants immunity from criminal prosecution to all employees of Russian consulates. Moscow insisted on this provision before agreeing to the treaty.

It is claimed by Hoover this is unprecedented in U. S. consular agreements. Such pacts with other countries grant immunity only on misdemeanors, and not felonies.

If this article remains in the treaty, an FBI estimate given Senator Dodd holds that "more than 400 Soviet espionage and intelligence agents assigned to proposed consulates in New York, Chicago, Detroit and Los Angeles would be guaranteed immunity from prosecution."

Moscow has indicated that if the pact is approved, it will seek to open consulates in these four cities. In contrast to these plans, the State Department intends to open only one in Leningrad.

WHEN THE KREMLIN initially proposed the immunity provision, Hoover vigorously dissented on the ground it would open the way for Russia to set up a virtual "fifth column" without fear of prosecution.

Under the agreement, the only recourse the U. S. would have in the event a Russian spy was apprehended would be to deport him. Hoover contended this would greatly work to the advantage of the Soviet as the U. S. meticulously bars its consulates from intelligence activities.

Katzenbach, then attorney general, overruled Hoover. At the State Department's request, Katzenbach participated in the negotiations on the consular treaty, and reportedly assisted in drafting Article 19.

Senator Dodd has strong bipartisan support in the committee in opposing the pact.

San Anselmo Councilmen Find It Hard To Stand By Decisions

San Anselmo Councilman Duane C. Ragan has lately taken to invoking "the wisdom of Solomon" to aid the council in its weighty decisions, but if a classical allusion is at all appropriate for the council's actions, an allusion to Hamlet might be closer.

It's not just that the councilmen seem to have trouble reading decisions—a problem common to any committee of more than one—San Anselmo's city fathers have trouble keeping decisions made once they have been reached.

I suppose it's in keeping with the spirit of the age that there is nothing absolute about a council decision.

They condemned two buildings recently, one unless it was fixed up, the other unconditionally, without the owner's having the alternative of fixing it up.

BOTH OWNERS were notified that their buildings would be discussed, but neither came to the meeting at which their buildings were condemned.

One of the owners, Harry Cordone, apparently wise to the ways of the council, started fixing his building — the building the council had decided could not be fixed—the day after the council condemned it. And sure enough, at a later meeting on Cordone's request, the council decided he could fix it up after all.

The other owner, Norman Gilroy, ignored the council for several meetings after his house at 21 Loma Robles Drive was condemned, waiting right up to the deadline the council had set to have the building either fixed or torn down before he finally came to a council meeting. And the council decided he did not even have to repair the building—he had only to board it up and remove any safety hazards to children who might find it an "attractive nuisance."

THEN OF COURSE there's the MacArthur case. To have or not to have the right to employ a two-piece rock 'n' roll band at MacArthur's Restaurant at 218 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Neighbors said the noise kept them awake. The council said owner Donald MacArthur should sound-proof the place. He did, but the neighbors at another meeting said it still kept them awake. The city fathers told MacArthur to get rid of the band. He did, but appealed at the next council session to get the band back. The council decided, since they had been considering the question for four council sessions by that time, that maybe they should really look into the matter themselves.

THEY SAID MacArthur could have his band back just long enough for the councilmen to see how it sounded. They did, and it didn't sound that bad.

So a special meeting was called for tonight to settle the question once and for all — maybe.

It's too bad, really, that the San Anselmo city fathers can't please all the people all the time—they certainly try.

Christmas Truce Fails To End Campaign Fever This Year

After even our bitterest political campaigns, once election is over we have traditionally declared a truce until after the New Year. And I had hoped, during this peaceful interlude, to use this column for some profound but non-controversial observations on Culture, Trading Stamps, and What Will the Dodgers do Without Koufax, subjects all dear to the American heart.

BUT ALAS! This time the extremists in both camps display more intransigence than the Viet Cong, and I fear there's no rest for the weary. Liberal Democrats are so used to winning that they have altogether forgotten the art of losing gracefully, and continue to hurl Molotov cocktails; while their counterparts in the GOP have taken a leaf from U.S. foreign policy and are fully prepared to yield at the conference table all they won in the field.

Pat Brown is one of the few losers who has shown any willingness to give as well as take. He has promised Governor-elect Reagan both that he would give him his full support and at the same time keep a watchful eye on him.

In maintenance of this pledge, Pat has been making some 50 lame duck appointments of deserving Democrats who may be counted on to watch the new Governor, but has considerately included one Republican, a municipal court judge, whom he has raised to a $30,000 post as a member of the California District Court of Appeal. That the judge happens to be Pat's brother is undoubtedly just a happy coincidence.

INCIDENTALLY, one California pollster has come up with an intriguing explanation of why his final poll, published the day before election, failed to predict the extent of the Republican sweep here and even made a bad guess on some key races.

It was, he says, the undecided voters—those who answer "I don't know" to the questioner — who were responsible. There they were on the fence till the very last minute, droves of them apparently, when suddenly they all rushed to the polls like lemmings and voted Republican.

I'm glad to have this cleared up, so that now I can read the poilsters more intelligently. These boys get to only a handful of people and a more accurate record of their sampling would go something like this:

Reagan	771
Brown	729
Don't know	6,421,823.

And the thing to remember is that it is the pollsters who don't know, not the voters. The computers are infallible, but they can't give better information than they get.

A NOTE FROM an Indianapolis reader who served as election judge illustrates what may happen when voters don't play ball with the machine. Her district, she reports, went Democratic for the first time in some 16 years, and two union leaders were completely dumbfounded by the tabulation. They had come early to make sure all their eligible members had voted, but the latter had apparently not obeyed orders. "We don't understand it," they moaned.

I have a veritable avalanche of letters from angered conservatives who dispute the objective analysis of the liberal commentators who find the election a clarion call for the nomination of Romney by the GOP in 1968.

Indeed, to hear these worthies tell it in the communications media, you would think that was what we had been voting on. And you might feel that LBJ and Hubert (who was Acting President for almost two hours) ought to do the decent thing and resign and let Romney and Javits be sworn in in their stead.

Yet last year, many of these same people—who had not voted GOP since McKinley, if then—were whooping it for New York's Lindsay as the Moses who would lead the Republicans out of the wilderness.

MY OWN observation is that most Republicans are currently busy deciding what to get Aunt Nellie for Christmas and haven't given a thought to 1968. So when even Dr. Gallup comes up with Romney 34, Nixon 22, Reagan 13, etc., remember the GOP "don't know" still lead the roost by some 35,000,000 or so.

Let's take one election at a time. Unless, of course, you're ready to substitute the computers for people. And I thought that was precisely what we had just voted overwhelmingly against.
